WAR MAY COME WITHIN 24 HOURS

Sniping at Supply Train for Pershing's Troops by Carranzista Soldiers is Reported—Mexican and U. S. Troops Face One Another Ready for a Battle.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
El Paso, Tex., June 21.—War between the United States and Mexico may come within twenty-four hours as a result of the firm stand taken by President Wilson in his note to the Carranza government, according to the belief expressed by military men here today.

Sniping at truck trains carrying supplies to the United States troops under Brigadier General John J. Pershing in Mexico was reported today from Columbus. The snipers are believed to have been Carranzista soldiers.

The contents of the Wilson note has already been communicated in substance to many of the Carranzista generals in northern Mexico from Juarez. It is feared that some of the hot-heads, angered by the strong tone of the document, may precipitate hostilities without the sanction of the de facto government.

Advices from the front, received by way of Columbus, say that both the Mexican and American forces are drawn up in fighting lines and each is tensely awaiting a move by the other.

News was received in Juarez that the text of the Wilson note was received in Mexico City late last night and that the work of translating it into Spanish was begun at once so that it could be presented to General Carranza today.

The note was received with high satisfaction on the border. Everywhere it was greeted with favorable comment, but attention has now been turned from the diplomatic phase of the situation to the military end.

Guards attending the truck trains passing southward toward Namiquipa have been doubled. There is a steady stream of lorries pouring outwards across the desert bearing provisions and ammunition for Brigadier General Pershing's forces.

A report was received that the counts sent out by Brigadier General Pershing toward the south and west after bandits have encountered strong hostile forces and that reinforcements have been rushed to the scene.

In the event of an outbreak of hostilities, General Bell, commanding at Fort Bliss, is expected to move into Mexico along the tracks of the Mexican Central railway and cut the line south of Villa Ahumada. This would prevent the de facto forces under General Francisco Serrano and General Jacinto Trevino from attacking the American troops at El Valle and Colonia Dublan.

Should a break come it is expected that Serrano would immediately vacate Juarez for the big guns of the United States army, mounted north of the Rio Grande could blast the city to splinters within a few days.

A number of railway trains are being held at Juarez for immediate use should the Mexicans decide upon evacuation of the border town.

Brigadier General Pershing's first move, should a break come, would be to drive against Chihuahua City, the chief base of the Carranzista army in the state of Chihuahua. The flower of the Mexican army is concentrated in this state with Chihuahua City in the hands of the United States troops.

However, Brigadier General Pershing would have a difficult task to perform in carrying out this enterprise. Strong Mexican forces have taken up strategic positions around Namiquipa. General Alvaro Obregon, the minister of war in the de facto government, who is a strategist of high order, personally directed the distribution of the troops.

The main Mexican force in the Namiquipa region is posted on high ground with a river between it and the Americans. This would make the use of artillery necessary for the Mexicans would probably have to be shelled out of their trenches to prevent heavy loss of American life.

Chihuahua City has been fortified with artillery posted on the hills overlooking the city.

Active recruiting of Mexicans on the American side of the border is stirring the federal authorities to vigorous action. In this connection the military authorities are co-operating with the civil officers.

In Nogales the American investigators discovered Jesus Fontez, an officer in the Carranzista army, actively engaged in enlisting volunteers. Fontez and two aids were taken into custody but not before they had induced sixteen Mexicans living in Arizona to join their cause.

H. Hochstetter, U. S. consul at Hermosillo, who has reached the United States through the assistance of Governor De La Huerta, states that there are a number of Americans in the Yaqui Valley who are in grave danger. Mr. Hochstetter said he was unable to communicate with them to warn them and has asked that the navy department be requested to look after their safety.

Yaqui Valley is infested with Yaqui Indians, a wild tribe that respects the life of no man but he Mexican or American.

All the Americans at Guaymas have taken passage on boats for San Diego.

Consul Hochstetter reports that he was subjected to insults by Mexicans all the way from Hermosillo to Nogales but that no personal injury was attempted.

There is a big sporting element in El Paso and their customary habit of utilizing any means to their end has found no exception in the grave situation now existing on the border. Heavy betting on the possibility of war is in progress. Wagers of 5 to 1 that war will come were made freely today.

MORAN TRAINING TO FIGHT DILLON

(By Franke G. Menke.)

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

White Sulphur Springs, N. Y., June 21.—Here, where the pines are fragrant and the air stimulates like wine, Frank Moran is going through the final stunts in preparation for his fight with Jack Dillon, a ten round affair, scheduled to take place in the open air in Brooklyn on June 29.

Moran is living the life a rustic. Fishing, canoeing and swimming constitute a large part of his conditioning program. As often as he can, he journeys over to neighboring farms and lends the folks a bit of his strength in plowing or doing other chores.

"The out-of-doors for mine," exclaimed the blond Pittsburgher today. "That's the only way to get into shape to fill your lungs with good fresh air and to let the sun beat down on you and tan your hide."

Moran each afternoon boxes from 4 to 6 rounds with his sparring partners, Frank Kendall and the Zulu Kid, in addition to working the pulleys, punching the bag and similar muscle producing tricks.

"Dillon is being quoted as saying that he's going to knock you out," we remarked to the Pittsburgh brawler.

Moran grinned. "That's what Willard said—and Johnson too," he replied. "I don't doubt that Dillon is going to try to knock me out. But isn't going to do it if I know anything about it. He's a tough bird. Some folks belittle him. I don't. I respect his fighting skill. He's a great brawler but I think that I am a bit better."

"I'm going out to win—and win decisively."

Moran will remain here until the day before the fight and then will auto to Albany and go to New York on the night boat.

Wolgang Lost on a Foul.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Richmond, Ind., June 21.—Ad Wolgang's penchant for losing on a foul was working in form last night and Stewart Donnelly was given the decision at the end of three rounds.

The referee decided that the former champion had hit Donnelly low.

GETTING READY FOR A FIGHT

Army and Navy Being Distributed With a View to Prompt Action in Case of War—West Point 1917 Class May be Graduated.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, June 21.—The forces of the army and navy were being distributed today to wedge all Mexico in an iron grip, should hostilities be forced by the de facto government. Practically every destroyer on the active list of the navy was under waiting orders. Supplies and munitions were on board and steam was up, ready at signal to throw a line of war craft along both coasts of Mexico and effectively blockade every port of that republic.

The first destroyer division of the Pacific fleet was ordered to steam south today to take positions selected by Admiral Winslow, where aid can be given unperilled Americans and the craft held in readiness for stern work should it become necessary.

All light-draught gunboats were also in readiness for blockade duty. The administration is determined that its embargo on all munitions and machinery for their manufacture shall be made absolute unless there is an immediate change in the attitude of the Carranza government.

And, while the naval forces were being lined up, every effort was being made by the war department to hurry the mobilization of the militia. Major General Funston's demand for some 35,000 National Guardsmen to strengthen his border forces will be granted as quickly as possible and if possible the first units sent forward will be cavalry, a branch very badly needed on the border.

As indicating the seriousness with which he views the situation, Secretary of War Baker today said that he now was considering graduating the 1917 class at the military academy immediately a year ahead of time in order to fill up gaps in the officers needed. Secretary Baker said that this action has not been fully decided on but that it very probably will be ordered.

No word yet has reached the department as to the position Carranza has taken on the American note. Only the brief statement that the note has reached Mexico City has been received here, and officials do not look for any positive action by the head of the de facto government before tomorrow.

Meanwhile the war college has perfected plans for action should Carranza decide to attack the American forces. All of the leading railroads have been communicated with and the exact available rolling stock for troop movements is known to the department. In addition arrangements have been made to take over many coastwise merchant vessels for use as transports should it be decided to move certain units by water. Only one army transport is available on the Atlantic. That is the Kilpatrick, which has been plying between New York and Panama. The Sumner now is in Mexican waters but she is prepared to take off American refugees. On the Pacific side the transports Logan, Sherman, Thomas and Buford either are available or can be made so within a short time.

Men With Good Feet and Good Teeth are Needed to Fill the Ranks to War Strength Before the Company Leaves—Only One Applicant in Three Has Proved Acceptable.

Company M needs at least 35 more men to bring it up to war strength and it should have them NOW, before it leaves town, so that it may reach camp with full ranks.

The Busy Street Liar has circulated rumors that no more men are needed, citing in proof that men are being turned away.

The men turned away are those who fail to pass the physical examination, and less than one in three applicants passes.

Teeth and feet seem to be the stumbling blocks to acceptance, the examining surgeons say. A surprising number of flat-footed men are found among applicants.

Another reason for rejection is lack of parental consent. Most of the applicants are under the age of 21 years and the consent of parent or guardian must be given before a minor can be sworn in. This is often refused.

FUNSTON PLEADS FOR ADDITIONAL TROOPS

Makes Second Request for All Available Militia, Especially Cavalry, to be Rushed to the Border—Fears Attack on Pershing's Forces.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

San Antonio, Tex., June 21.—Major General Funston, fearing an attack upon Brigadier General Pershing's forces, has made a second request to the war department that all available militia, especially cavalry, be rushed to the border at once. This request was sent to Washington today.

Word has been received at Major General Funston's headquarters that the New York and Illinois cavalry are already fully equipped and ready to take the field.

It has now been established that the Mexicans who attacked the Americans recently at San Ignacio and Matamoros were Carranza soldiers and not bandits.

TENTH REGIMENT MAY LEAVE SUNDAY

Meanwhile Company M is Being Trained and Drilled at the Armory and Athletic Field and Examination of Recruits is Going on Steadily.

Licking recruits into shape and bringing the condition of members up to the last word in efficiency are two matters just now engaging the attention of the officers of Company M while mobilization halts. New enlistments have brought the company's strength up to 115 men and every effort will be made to bring this figure up to 150 before the week is out. It is now expected judging from remarks attributed to Colonel John F. Klein, its commanding officer, that the Tenth regiment will move to Camp Beekman on Sunday.

It is also believed that in view of the remarkable spirit exhibited in the various companies composing the Tenth that that regiment now third in strength and efficiency in the State militia, is almost certain of being among the New York regiments detailed to duty on the Mexican border. This news was visibly pleasing to officers and men of company M at the Armory today.

In addition, the disposition among some employers to continue the wages of employees while called away from their duties for military service plainly made a more cheerful outlook for a number of family men. These same employers state that the positions of the men will be open for them also at the close of their military experience.

What The Soldiers Eat.

At the Armory things are humming as usual and one of the big tasks is providing food for the men. The commissary calls for forty loaves of bread, one half dozen hams, 500 eggs, 20 lb. of bacon, 75 lb. of beef with coffee, etc., in corresponding quantities. Here's the card for mess call during the day:

Morning—ham and eggs, bacon, coffee, bread and butter, jam.

Noon—Hamburg steak, stewed tomatoes, boiled potatoes, bread, and butter, coffee, jam.

Night—Potato salad, cold meat, coffee bread and butter, jam.

Jam is a necessity practically on the bill of fare. It is said, it being used as a substitute for butter in some cases and furnishing a sweet touch to the meal to which the soldier is susceptible as well as others.

Changes in Non-Coms.

Changes in the personnel of the non-commissioned officers were announced this morning by Captain Frank L. Meagher as follows:

First Sergeant Mullen relieved from duty to take effect June 20th. Appointed armorer to take effect same date.

Promotions to Non-Commissioned Officers.

geant. Lance Corporal H. W. Costello to corporal.

Lance Corporal George W. Plant-haber to corporal.

Privates V. C. Markle and S. T. Beatty to be lance corporals.

List of New Men.

Twenty-six new men had been enlisted in Company M up to noon today and as many more are in process of enlistment with examinations still to come. The correct list as accepted was given out today as follows:

Elmer C. C. Hoelger
Edward H. Freer
George P. Simmons
Martin J. Oulton
John Dunbar
Ed. H. Roedel
Joseph Rothery
John Greene
Harry Sills
Henry Engel
Herman Britcliffe
Winfield Entrott
Lester Wolf
Adolph Woelfersheim
Robert Hoffman
William Clark
Julian Canfield
James W. Scott
Michael Burke
Arthur Fox
Virgil Bundy
Fred M. Snyder
George F. Rafferty
Benjamin Cheschore
August C. Friedrich
Joseph Gabral

The second night passed quietly except for the snoring of some of the contingent which will probably be less disturbing when encased under canvas. The men are all in good spirits and slept well to the first call this morning. The only dissatisfaction noticed is the prospect of waiting three more days before getting under way and always the chance that "Old Whiskers," as Carranza is already called, may back down hard before Uncle Sam's mailed fist.

Men Cheerful Under Routine.

Drill and the routine of camp life, however, serves to keep the men occupied and a number of new recruits are coming in for instruction. The drill floor during the day is occupied by awkward squads receiving first instruction in the art of properly carrying a rifle and in setting up exercises as well. To the credit of the recruits let it be said that they are taking to their new duties with a spirit that speaks well for the quality of the raw material being taken in.

In a sense, every man in the company is a recruiting officer and numbers of young men are daily taking out application blanks. Not all of these come back owing to failure to obtain parental consent where the applicant is under 21 years of age. Captain Meagher desires to dispose of the erroneous idea that Company M is recruited up to its full war strength as 200 men will be enlisted if possible, the overflow going to

Makes Second Request for All Available Militia, Especially Cavalry, to be Rushed to the Border—Fears Attack on Pershing's Forces.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

San Antonio, Tex., June 21.—Major General Funston, fearing an attack upon Brigadier General Pershing's forces, has made a second request to the war department that all available militia, especially cavalry, be rushed to the border at once. This request was sent to Washington today.

Word has been received at Major General Funston's headquarters that the New York and Illinois cavalry are already fully equipped and ready to take the field.

It has now been established that the Mexicans who attacked the Americans recently at San Ignacio and Matamoros were Carranza soldiers and not bandits.

TENTH REGIMENT MAY LEAVE SUNDAY

Meanwhile Company M is Being Trained and Drilled at the Armory and Athletic Field and Examination of Recruits is Going on Steadily

Licking recruits into shape and bringing the condition of members up to the last word in efficiency are two matters just now engaging the attention of the officers of Company M while mobilization halts. New enlistments have brought the company's strength up to 115 men and every effort will be made to bring this figure up to 150 before the week is out. It is now expected judging from remarks attributed to Colonel John F. Klein, its commanding officer, that the Tenth regiment will move to Camp Beekman on Sunday.

It is also believed that in view of the remarkable spirit exhibited in the various companies composing the Tenth that that regiment now third in strength and efficiency in the State militia, is almost certain of being among the New York regiments detailed to duty on the Mexican border. This news was visibly pleasing to officers and men of company M at the Armory today.

In addition, the disposition among some employers to continue the wages of employees while called away from their duties for military service plainly made a more cheerful outlook for a number of family men. These same employers state that the positions of the men will be open for them also at the close of their military experience.

What The Soldiers Eat.

At the Armory things are humming as usual and one of the big tasks is providing food for the men. The commissary calls for forty loaves of bread, one half dozen hams, 500 eggs, 20 lb. of bacon, 75 lb. of beef with coffee, etc., in the corresponding quantities. Here's the card for mess call during the day:
Morning—ham and eggs, bacon, coffee, bread and butter, jam.
Noon—Hamburg steak, stewed tomatoes, boiled potatoes, bread, and butter, coffee, jam.
Night—Potato salad cold meat, coffee bread and butter, jam.

Jam is a necessity practically on the bill of fare. It is said, it being used as a substitute for butter in some cases and furnishing a sweet touch to the meal to which the soldier is susceptible as well as others.

Changes in Non-Coms.

Changes in the personnel of the non-commissioned officers were announced this morning by Captain Frank L. Meagher as follows:
First Sergeant Mullen relieved from duty to take effect June 20th. Appointed armorer to take effect same date.

Promotions to Non-Commissioned Officers.

geant, Lance Corporal H. W. Costello to corporal. Lance Corporal George W. Plant-haber to corporal. Privates V. C. Markle and S. T. Beatty to be lance corporals.

List of New Men.

Twenty-six new men had been enlisted in Company M up to noon today and as many more are in process of enlistment with examinations still to come. The correct list as accepted was given out today as follows:

Elmer C. C. Hoetger
Edward H. Freer
George P. Simmons
Martin J. Oulton
John Dunbar
Ed. H. Roedel
Joseph Rothery
John Greene
Harry Sills
Henry Engel
Herman Britcliffe
Winfield Entwitt
Lester Wolf
Adolph Woelfersheim
Robert Hoffman
William Clark
Julian Canfield
James W. Scott
Michael Burke
Arthur Fox
Virgil Bundy
Fred M. Snyder
George F. Rafferty
Benjamin Cheschore
August C. Friedrich
Joseph Gabral

The second night passed quietly except for the snoring of some of the contingent which will probably be less disturbing when encased under canvas. The men are all in good spirits and slept well to the first call this morning. The only dissatisfaction noticed is the prospect of waiting three more days before getting under way and always the chance that "Old Whiskers," as Carranza is already called, may back down hard before Uncle Sam's mailed fist.

Men Cheerful Under Routine.

Drill and the routine of camp life, however, serves to keep the men occupied and a number of new recruits are coming in for instruction. The drill floor during the day is occupied by awkward squads receiving first instruction in the art of properly carrying a rifle and in setting up exercises as well. To the credit of the recruits let it be said that they are taking to their new duties with a spirit that speaks well for the quality of the raw material being taken in.

In a sense, every man in the company is a recruiting officer and numbers of young men are daily taking application blanks. Not all of these come back owing to failure to obtain parental consent where the applicant is under 21 years of age. Captain Meagher desires to dispose of the erroneous idea that Company M is recruited up to its full war strength as 200 men will be enlisted if possible, the overflow going to

HIGH FALLS.

High Falls, June 21.—Mrs. Richard Purvis of Kingston and her sister, Miss Elizabeth Freer, called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eli Deputy on Saturday evening of the past week.

Mrs. Joseph Yeaple has gone to Walden to spend a few weeks at the home of her son, Claude Yeaple. Children's Day will be observed in the Reformed Church the coming Sunday morning, June 25.

A young lady friend is the guest of Miss Edna Freer.

The subject for the Wednesday evening prayer meeting is "The Usefulness of Good Cheer." The reference is found in John 16:24-33.

The regents' preliminary examinations are being held in the High Falls public school. A number of pupils from other schools are attending these examinations. The program is: Monday morning, geography; Monday afternoon, spelling; Tuesday morning, arithmetic; Tuesday afternoon, elementary English; Wednesday afternoon, elementary U. S. history and civics.

There will be a stereopticon lecture in the Reformed Church the coming Sunday evening. Everyone is most cordially invited to be present. The subject is "Child Life in the World." This subject fits in very appropriately, as Children's Day is observed in the morning.

Miss Evelyn Elmendorf is boarding in town this week.

The students from this place who attend Kingston high school are trying the regents' examinations. We wish them the best of success.

The Ladies' Missionary Society will serve a supper on Tuesday evening, June 27. The menu will consist of creamed potatoes, cold boiled ham, radishes, pickles, home made bread and butter, tea, coffee and strawberry shortcake. The price of the supper will be 25 cents. Ice cream will also be served for the additional sum of ten cents. Please bear this event in mind and come and bring your friends. Enjoy the supper and a social evening.

Floyd Schoonmaker, who has been visiting his parents at Granite, returned home the past week.

Miss Palmerine De Benigne, who has been working in New York city, returned home the past week.

Mrs. Richard Purvis of Kingston, who has been visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Freer, returned home on Monday morning.

The High Falls public school closed the past Friday. Regents are being held there this week.

Mrs. William Haze and the young lady friend who is a guest at their home, visited town on Monday.

NEW HURLEY.

New Hurley, June 21.—John Gabriel, who has been quite ill, is improving slowly.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mantz of Wallkill were guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Sherwood recently.

Elmer Richards is having a new roof put on his residence. Charles Bishop is doing the work.

Miss Adah Van Kleef was a week end guest of her sister, Mrs. John Kidd, at Walden.

The New Hurley school closed on Friday last for its summer vacation. The teacher, Miss Kittle, had planned to have a picnic in the grove, but on account of the storm it was held at the school house.

A strawberry and ice cream festival will be held on the lawn of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Powell for the benefit of the Plains Sunday school on Thursday evening, June 29, and if stormy, the next night. All are cordially invited.

Mr. and Mrs. George Masten of Walden spent last Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Woolsey.

Mrs. Phoebe Kate Sheritt of Grand Rapids, Mich., is spending some time with Mr. and Mrs. Peter Wilkin.

The Missionary Society will meet with Mrs. George Van Wyck on Thursday afternoon, July 6, at 2 o'clock. Miss Davis of New York will be at this meeting and address the ladies.

A number from this place attended the boat races at Highland on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Sutton and daughter visited at George Dunsinberry's at Modena on Sunday.

John Booth and Charles Griffin represented the New Hurley school at the town of Plattekill spelling match held at Clintondale last week. Charles Griffin won second place.

There will be preaching services on Sunday morning, June 25, at New Hurley. The Rev. C. E. Lasher will occupy the pulpit and the service will begin at 10:30 o'clock, but there will be no Sunday school until after the redecorating of the church.

A congregational meeting was held after the services last Sunday morning to vote on extending the Rev. George Scholten of Inwood, Iowa, a call to become pastor of the church. The vote was unanimous.

Miss Bulah Kittle, who is attending school at Albany, spent a few days last week with her sister, Beatrice Kittle. Both left this place Saturday afternoon for their home at Seager, N. Y.

26 French Balloons Lost.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Berlin, June 21.—One of the twenty-six French captive balloons, which were recently torn from their anchorage before Verdun and in the Vosges mountains by a violent storm, has made a long journey. The balloon traveled over 500 miles and came down near the coast of the Baltic Sea. While peasants who had grabbed the guide ropes were trying to pull it to the ground, it was struck by lightning and destroyed, but the crew of two officers and a sergeant, were unhurt.

When they were driven across the frontier and carried over Germany they hoped to reach Russia or Sweden.

After being in the air twenty hours they found themselves over the Baltic Sea, but suddenly the wind changed and carried them back to the German coast.

Festival at Rosendale.

A strawberry and ice cream festival will be given in All Saints' parish house Rosendale, Thursday evening, June 22, under the auspices of the several parish societies. A cordial welcome is extended to all to attend. Mr. and Mrs. Mattman will play for the evening.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

A Good Sport Suit.

Blouse 1647—Skirt 1646. This portrays a combination of Middy Blouse 1647 and Skirt 1646.

For misses and small women it will be especially attractive. In crepe, khaki, taffeta, linen, drill, crepe, silk or wool jersey or serge, with a desired and appropriate trimming it will be very smart. If desired, the skirt may be of cloth and the blouse of silk or wash material. The blouse and skirt are cut in 4 sizes: 14, 16, 18 and 20 years. It requires 3 1/2 yards for the skirt and 2 1/2 yards for the blouse of material 44 inches wide, for a 16-year size. The skirt measures about 3 1/2 yards at its lower edge.

This illustration calls for TWO separate patterns, which will be mailed to any address on receipt of ten cents FOR EACH pattern, in silver or stamps, by The Freeman Pattern Department. Be sure to state size wanted.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

LITTLE ECONOMIES.

The mind is master of the man, and so they can who think they can.

A diligent man can always find leisure, a lazy one, never.

Cut stale bread into lengths the size of the finger, dip into milk and put into a greased tin to bake in the oven until crisp. Spread with marmalade or jam after putting on a thin coating of butter and serve hot.

To keep the baby off the floor and yet give him exercise, place two table leaves on his bed, cover with a carpet and he will be able to sit or stand with no fear of a fall or a cold.

A good brown cake recipe may be made by using cracklings for shortening. To two cups of chopped cracklings add a cupful of brown sugar, one-half cupful of seeded raisins, a teaspoonful of cinnamon, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of allspice. Into a cup drop an egg, three-fourths full of milk, and add one and a fourth cupfuls of flour, sifted with two tablespoonfuls of baking powder and a fourth of a teaspoonful of salt. Drop in gem pans and bake.

Pineapple Pudding.—Dry three slices of stale bread until crisp, then roll or put through the meat grinder. To the bread crumbs add one cupful of flour, one tablespoonful of butter and one-half cupful of sugar, one cupful of milk, one-half cupful of pineapple juice, and two slices of the fruit with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, combine in the order given, pour into a buttered dish and bake 20 minutes. Serve with a sauce made by cooking together two tablespoonfuls of butter and flour, add a cupful of pineapple juice and a tablespoonful of lemon juice, a cupful of sugar and a grating of nutmeg.

Spice Pudding.—To two cupfuls of graham bread crumbs add one well-beaten egg, one pint of sour milk, one teaspoonful of soda, one cupful of sugar, a cupful each of chopped dates and nuts, one tablespoonful of butter and spices to taste. Bake in a moderate oven and serve with whipped cream.

ORGANIZING TO AID FAMILIES OF SOLDIERS

Those Who Gave So Liberally to the Belgian and Other European War Sufferers to be Asked to Aid Families of Our Own Soldiers.

Mrs. Chandler, wife of Major George Chandler, is consulting with the heads of the various organizations in this city and county that have been active in sending relief to the European war sufferers to the end that an organization be formed here that will take measures to aid the families of our own home soldiers who have been or will be called into the service. The pay of a private is only $17 a month, which is glaringly inadequate for the support of a family.

Mrs. Chandler will call on the officers of the Daughters of Isabella, the Sister Garden Club, the local branch of the American Independence Union, and every other organization she can reach or think of that has been active in sending aid to the war sufferers in Europe and a meeting of representatives of these bodies will meet at her residence next Monday afternoon to discuss the matter. Any organization that Mrs. Chandler fails to extend a personal invitation to is invited and urged to send its representative to this meeting.

Mrs. Laura McMillan will aid in the matter of investigating applications for aid and in seeking out cases of need.

Patriotism Rampant at Regents Examinations in School No.—

Youthful patriotism finds no greater exponent than one of the privates in Company M who was given leave on Tuesday to return to one of the grade schools of the city in order to complete his regents' examinations or admission to the High School, and he went—in full regimentals, to say that boy is the hero of that school is putting it mildly. The boy's name is (deleted by censor) and the school might be "somewhere in France" for all the information obtainable at headquarters.

WAR STIMULATES MARRIAGE RECORD

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, June 21.—Mr. Kipling's rather sage advice to the young British soldier has struck no responsive chord in the khaki-covered hearts of Chicago troopers. The answer to Mr. Kipling's "For love won't help if your rations are cold," can be found in the records of the marriage license bureau.

There were twelve marriages of soldiers last night just before the first of the Chicago troopers departed for Springfield, and more were expected today when the others move out. Among today's will be that of "Dick" Dunne, son of the governor of Illinois, and Miss Frances Fitzgerald. Governor Dunne arranged a special furlough of a day for his son, who is a sergeant of Battery D, Illinois National Guard.

ESOPUS.

Esopus, June 21.—The Ladies' Aid Society will hold a strawberry and ice cream festival on the M. E. Church lawn on Tuesday evening of next week, June 27. The date was first set for June 29, but has been changed to the 27th. All are invited to come and spend a pleasant evening and partake of the good things which are provided by the committee.

Despite the heavy rain which fell just at the hour when people were leaving their homes to attend the Children's Day exercises, a large congregation assembled at the Methodist Church to listen to the program entitled "Voices of Praise." The church was prettily decorated with roses, ferns and various other flowers. All the little girls appeared in white dresses with pretty ribbons, and the boys looked like veritable little gentlemen. All had their parts well learned and the program was rendered in a pleasing manner. Rev. Mr. Bullen gave an exceedingly interesting address, his theme being "Cleave to that which is good." He advised the children to cleave to their mother, their home and their Bible in order to become beautiful and strong in character. An offering was taken for the children's fund.

Mrs. Hasbrouck Freer and little son, Hasbrouck, Jr., have gone to Poughkeepsie to be present at a reunion of the Mott family, which will be held at the home of Mrs. Freer's father, Francis L. Mott, at 48 Academy street.

The district school closed last Thursday. The teacher, Miss Margaret Sheehan, had planned to give the children a picnic on Friday but the (almost) never ceasing rain prevented. However, after the regents' examinations are over the picnic will take place and on Thursday pupils and teacher anticipate a pleasant time.

Miss Newman of Oak Hill, a former parishioner of Rev. Mr. Bullen, visited at the parsonage last week.

Elmer Drake, wife and little daughter, Gladys, visited Mr. Drake's father and mother last week. They motored to Esopus from their home at Staatsburgh and upon their return were accompanied as far as Poughkeepsie by Mrs. Benneway. Mr. Drake's grandmother, who will remain in the latter city until September.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson of Springfield, Mass., recently spent the day at S. E. Mott's.

Mrs. O. E. McLain spent Sunday with Mrs. Edward Ashton, going from there to the Children's Day service in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Ovid Baker and two little daughters of Jersey City spent the week end with Mrs. Baker's sister, Mrs. Alex Smith.

Mrs. Amy Sheely has somewhat improved in health since going to her daughter's, Mrs. Alex Smith, and her friends hope to hear of her complete recovery soon.

Perhaps Esopus will be favored with a building boom soon. Mr. Ganoung has given the opportunity by placing a sign upon his property just above the M. E. Church which reads "Building Lots For Sale."

The new sidewalk from the corner of Main street to the West Shore station was a much needed improvement and the inhabitants of this little village feel very grateful to S. E. Mott for suggesting the plan, and to all the men who so nobly responded to the call to assist with the work.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stewart went to Kingston on Saturday to be present at the marriage of Miss Catherine Hasbrouck and Dr. Charles Nickless. The bride is a niece of Mrs. Stewart.

Quite a few from this place attended the boat races at Poughkeepsie last Saturday.

(Mrs. Frank Cole of Jersey City her daughter, Elizabeth, arrived in town today for a visit to her mother, Mrs. Amy Sheeley.

Mrs. Emma Dickerson visited friends in Kingston today. Miss Viva Freer, of the Benedictine Sanitarium, Kingston, is spending a two weeks' vacation with her mother, Mrs. Emory Freer.

Mrs. Cole of Ulster Park spent Sunday with her sister, Mrs. Charles C. Beaver, and attended the children's exercises in the evening.

GAME IN THE ANTARCTIC.

Seal Steak is Good, and So Are the Brackets and Eggs of Penguins.

In the antarctic there is not the immense variety of game which is to be found in north polar regions; but, on the other hand, it is very abundant and can be turned into food with the smallest exertion. The Weddell seal, which sometimes weighs as much as half a ton, allows itself to be killed and cut up with placid calm. Its natural enemies are in the water, and for long generations it has been accustomed to bask in the sun undisturbed.

Seal steak is an acquired taste, but when acquired explorers prefer it to tinned provisions. It is a common assumption that seal flesh tastes of train oil. That is a mistake; the flesh itself contains no fat, but it is extremely rich in blood, and in taste suggests the Scottish delicacy known as black pudding. Penguins, too, make a very desirable

OVER THE EQUATOR.

The Coldest Air Blows High Up Above This Torrid Region.

Winds blow not merely along the surface of the earth, but upward and downward throughout the atmosphere. They whirl about in all directions. So it is impossible to construct a weather chart that will really show the directions of the winds, for such a chart would have to be in three dimensions.

Professor Alexander McAdie of Harvard in an article in the Geographical Review describes some of the recent experiments in the upper air performed by sounding balloons. The atmosphere has, roughly, two layers, the lower called the troposphere and the upper the stratosphere. The strongest winds are found just below the stratosphere, and it would seem that pressure changes originate in this region.

The stratosphere is highest over the equator and lowest over the poles, but its height varies with the season. "At the equator," says Professor McAdie, "as we rise in the air the temperature continues to fall to a much greater height than in temperate latitudes. Indeed, the lowest temperature is found above the equator."

HIGH FALLS.

High Falls, June 21.—Mrs. Richard Purvis of Kingston and her sister, Miss Elizabeth Freer, called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eli Deput on Saturday evening of the past week.

Mrs. Joseph Yeaple has gone to Walden to spend a few weeks at the home of her son, Claude Yeaple.

Children's Day will be observed in the Reformed Church the coming Sunday morning, June 25.

A young lady friend is the guest of Miss Edna Freer.

The subject for the Wednesday evening prayer meeting is "The Usefulness of Good Cheer." The reference is found in John 16:24-33.

The regents' preliminary examinations are being held in the High Falls public school. A number of pupils from other schools are attending these examinations. The program is: Monday morning, geography; Monday afternoon, spelling; Tuesday morning, arithmetic; Tuesday afternoon, elementary English; Wednesday afternoon, elementary U. S. history and civics.

There will be a stereopticon lecture in the Reformed Church the coming Sunday evening. Everyone is most cordially invited to be present. The subject is "Child Life in the World." This subject fits in very appropriately as Children's Day is observed in the morning.

Miss Evelyn Elmdorf is boarding in town this week.

The students from this place who attend Kingston high school are trying the regents' examinations. We wish them the best of success.

The Ladies' Missionary Society will serve a supper on Tuesday evening, June 27. The menu will consist of creamed potatoes, cold boiled ham, radishes, pickles, home made bread and butter, tea, coffee and strawberry shortcake. The price of the supper will be 25 cents. Ice cream will also be served for the additional sum of ten cents. Please bear this event in mind and come and bring your friends. Enjoy the supper and a social evening.

Floyd Schoonmaker, who has been visiting his parents at Granite, returned home the past week.

Miss Palmerine De Benigne, who has been working in New York city, returned home the past week.

Mrs. Richard Purvis of Kingston, who has been visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Freer, returned home on Monday morning.

The High Falls public school closed the past Friday. Regents are being held there this week.

Mrs. William Haze and the young lady friend who is a guest at their home, visited town on Monday.

NEW HURLEY.

New Hurley, June 21.—John Gabriel, who has been quite ill, is improving slowly.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mantz of Wallkill were guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Sherwood recently.

Eli Mackey is having a new roof put on his residence. Charles Bishop is doing the work.

Miss Adah Van Kleck was a week end guest of her sister, Mrs. John Kidd, at Walden.

The New Hurley school closed on Friday last for its summer vacation. The teacher, Miss Kittie, had planned to have a picnic in the grove, but on account of the storm it was held at the school house.

A strawberry and ice cream festival will be held in the lawn of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Powell for the benefit of the Plains Sunday school on Thursday evening, June 29, and if stormy, the next night. All are cordially invited.

Mr. and Mrs. George Masten of Walden spent last Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Woolsey.

Mrs. Phoebe Kate Sherret of Grand Rapids, Mich., is spending some time with Mr. and Mrs. Peter Wilkin.

The Missionary Society will meet with Mrs. George Van Wyck on Thursday afternoon, July 6, at 2 o'clock. Miss Davis of New York will be at this meeting and address the ladies.

A number from this place attended the boat races at Highland on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Sutton and daughter visited at George Dunsinber's at Modena on Sunday.

John Booth and Charles Griffin represented the New Hurley school at the town of Platekill spelling match held at Clintondale last week.

Charles Griffin won second place.

There will be preaching services on Sunday morning, June 25, at New Hurley. The Rev. C. E. Lasher will occupy the pulpit and the service will begin at 10:30 o'clock, but there will be no Sunday school until after the redecorating of the church.

A congregational meeting was held after the services last Sunday morning to vote on extending the Rev. George Scholten of Inwood, Iowa, a call to become pastor of the church. The vote was unanimous.

Miss Bulah Kittie, who is attending school at Albany, spent a few days last week with her sister, Beatrice.

Kittie. Both left this place Saturday afternoon for their home at Seager, N. Y.

26 French Balloons Lost.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Berlin, June 21.—One of the twenty-six French captive balloons, which were recently torn from their anchorage before Verdun and in the Vosges mountains by a violent storm, has made a long journey. The balloon traveled over 500 miles and came down near the coast of the Baltic Sea. While peasants who had grabbed the guide ropes were trying to pull it to the ground, it was struck by lightning and destroyed, but the crew of two officers and a servant, were unhurt.

When they were driven across the frontier and carried over Germany they hoped to reach Russia or Sweden.

After being in the air twenty hours they found themselves over the Baltic Sea, but suddenly the wind changed and carried them back to the German coast.

Festival at Rosendale.

A strawberry and ice cream festival will be given in All Saints' parish house Rosendale, Thursday evening, June 22, under the auspices of the several parish societies. A cordial welcome is extended to all to attend. Mr. and Mrs. Mattman will play for the evening.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

A Good Sport Suit.

Blouse 1647—Skirt 1646. This portrays a combination of Middy Blouse 1647 and Skirt 1646.

For misses and small women it will be especially attractive. In pique, khaki, taffeta, linen, drill, crepe, silk or wool jersey or serge, with a desired and appropriate trimming it will be very smart. If desired, the skirt may be of cloth and the blouse of silk or wash material. The blouse and skirt are out in 4 sizes: 14, 16, 18 and 20 years.

It requires 3½ yards for the skirt and 2½ yards for the blouse of material 44 inches wide, for a 16-year size. The skirt measures about 3½ yards at its lower edge.

This illustration calls for TWO separate patterns, which will be mailed to any address on receipt of ten cents FOR EACH pattern, in silver or stamps, by The Freeman Pattern Department. Be sure to state size wanted.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

LITTLE ECONOMIES.

The mind is master of the man. And so they can who think they can.

Cut stale bread into lengths the size of the finger, dip into milk and put into a greased tin to bake in the oven until crisp. Spread with marmalade or jam after putting on a thin coating of butter and serve hot.

To keep the baby off the floor and yet give him exercise, place two table leaves on his bed, cover with a carpet and he will be able to sit or stand with no fear of a fall or a cold.

A good brown cake recipe may be made by using cracklings for shortening. To two cups of chopped cracklings add a cupful of brown sugar, one-half cupful of seeded raisins, a teaspoonful of cinnamon, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of cloves, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of allspice. Into a cup drop an egg, three-fourths full of milk, add one and a fourth cupfuls of flour, sifted with two tablespoonfuls of baking powder and a fourth of a teaspoonful of salt. Drop in gem pans and bake.

Pineapple Pudding.—Dry three slices of stale bread until crisp, then roll or put through the meat grinder. To the bread crumbs add one cupful of flour, one tablespoonful of butter and one-half cupful of sugar, one cupful of milk, one-half cupful of pineapple juice, and two slices of the fruit with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, combine in the order given, pour into a buttered dish and bake 20 minutes. Serve with a sauce made by cooking together two tablespoonfuls of butter and flour, add a cupful of pineapple juice and a tablespoonful of lemon juice, a cupful of sugar and a grating of nutmeg.

Spice Pudding.—To two cupfuls of graham bread crumbs add one well-beaten egg, one pint of sour milk, one teaspoonful of soda, one cupful of sugar, a cupful each of chopped dates and nuts, one tablespoonful of butter and spices to taste. Bake in a moderate oven and serve with whipped cream.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JUNE 21, 1916.

Inconsistency and uncertainty have been the twin beacon lights of our Mexican progress down to date and now that the manhood of the nation is soon to face the guns of the so-called Constitutional Chief recognized above all the other head bandits by this government, some of the utterances of the President in this respect are worthy of being recalled to mind. In December, 1914, the President speaking on National Defense said: "But I turn away from the subject; it is not new." A little more than a year later he was urging that not a day be lost in preparing the country for any eventuality. After the Villa raid, the President complained that he had not men enough to keep bandits from raiding United States territory. Yet only a year before this he declared: "Let there be no misconception, the country has been misinformed; we have not been negligent of national defense!" It may be admitted that the Mexican policy has been perplexing at times, but the stupidity which has marked the executive effort, governed largely by political expediency, is without parallel in our history. It is a sample of the "definite policies" to which the Democrats claim they have committed our country.

Prosperity and big profits are urged as reasons why President Wilson should be retained in office. "Directors of a live business concern do not discharge the manager when he is able to show the biggest profits—neither will Uncle Sam," says the official bulletin of the Democratic National Committee. Naturally, anything like prosperity under a Democratic administration is so novel as to be hailed with delight by all hands but this matter of big profits for the few is an entirely different proposition. It was not so long ago that a drug syndicate in this country was showing enormous profits but these were due to an extensive sale of cocaine. The manager was promptly given his walking papers and the concern continued to prosper, although not so spectacularly, doing business along legitimate lines. This illicit drug business is something like our trade in war munitions with Europe insofar as profits are concerned. If President Wilson wants to make responsibility for this abnormal trade a personal one, he is welcome to the issue.

Presidential elections have been won without New York State, but in most of the Presidential contests in recent years the Empire State has been the principal battleground and will again become the scene of the main fight this year. Political experts have figured that this year's Presidential contest will be decided by six States—New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Ohio, Indiana and Wisconsin, and that whoever carries a majority of these six States undoubtedly will win. Their importance is due to the number of presidential electors they have and the fact that the political pendulum does not always swing the same way in these States when Presidents are to be elected. The result in certain other States, notably those which have a smaller number of electors, is reasonably certain because for many years they have been decisively Republican or Democratic and nothing has occurred to cause a political revolution within their borders. Illinois formerly was considered a doubtful State but results in contests fought out during the past three years give every assurance that it has no further use for the Wilson administration or policies but will be Republican by a large majority. New York has little sympathy with the Wilson administration, either from a political standpoint or from the standpoint of Americanism, and Wilson's defeat overwhelmingly in New York seems certain. New York is too important to allow itself to be ignored in the way it has been for three years, particularly in the matter of preparedness, while forced to contribute to a national pork barrel which has been divided among the Southern Democrats under the guise of river and harbor improvements.

Most of us have sympathized with the young woman left waiting at the church after all the fuss over the license to love, honor and obey had been undergone and the bridegroom then proved recalcitrant but when both the would-be joiners at Hymen's altar are held up by the law's delays there is an inclination to laugh at love and the legal locksmithing that temporarily delays the realization of fond dreams. Mrs. Madeline Force Astor, who in wedding William K. Dick will have to give up a trust fund of several millions created by her late husband, Colonel John Jacob Astor, had the plans for her marriage Monday go astray due to the devilish ingenuity which marks the Maine law requiring a halt of five days from the application for a marriage license to the time of granting this essential document. Meanwhile the parties must mark time or else steal away to friendly old New York, where the ceremony could be celebrated between trains. In either event the New York lawyer who told the prospective Mrs. Dick that she could be licensed on Saturday and wed on Monday has had his knowledge of Maine's revised statutes jarred up to date to say nothing of bearing the criticism of his clients left in such luckless plight on a stern and rockbound coast.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

"Do you believe in dreams, Jack?"
"No. I was in love with one once, but she jilted me."—Puck.
"Do any shooting during the season?" "Yes; shot a brace of ducks."
"Were they wild?" "No; but the farmer was."—Boston Transcript.
County correspondence of the Pangburn News: "The heating stoves have all took their respective places in our sitting rooms."—Atlanta Constitution.
"I would I were a bird," she sang. "I would you were," said her husband. "You could go south for the winter without it's costing me anything."—Life.
"Notice the girl over there dancing? Trim little craft, eh?" "Yes, and besides being a trim little craft, I notice she is also something of a skipper."—Baltimore American.
"Well," said the cheerless person. "Thanksgiving is all right, but I believe I prefer an old fashioned Fourth of July." "Why?" "It's cheaper to celebrate. A pack of firecrackers cost a lot less than a turkey."—Washington Star.

Not the Same.

Booth Tarkington, congratulated on his vivid and poetical portrayals of colored characters, told a story at a dinner in New York:
"An old colored man," he said, "went to the polls one day to register."
"What's your name, uncle?" the clerk asked.
"Mah name am George Washington, sah," the old fellow answered.
"George Washington, eh?" said the clerk. "Well, George, are you the fellow that cut down the cherry tree?"
"No, sah," said the old man. "No, sah, I ain't. I ain't done no work at all, sah, for nigh on fer years."—New York Telegraph.

Before Verdun.
"The Verdun battle has ended a very long period of inaction," said Col. Don Nicolas Cerejo, the Spanish military attaché, at a reception last month.
"The inaction was, in fact, so marked that an English officer, talking to me while over here on brief leave, said:
"Oh, yes, we were quite comfy in our winter quarters—jolly fine trenches, good funk holes, quiet Germans. We'd been told that there were only the caretaker and his wife in the German trench opposite ours. He fired the shots while she sent up the flares.
"We used to get so fed up with doing nothing," the English officer continued, "that we'd organize every Friday a cleaning fatigue. We'd take down all our sand bags and give them a thorough dusting, and sections of our men, armed with the very latest and most potent polishes, would go out and polish up the long wire entanglements till they shone like virgin silver in the winter sun."
"Of course," ended Col. Cerejo, "the Verdun offensive ended all that kind of joking talk."—Washington Star.

Profit Enough.
After Old Mose had been given a job, say Lippinott's Magazine, the foreman saw him comfortably seated on the sand he was to shovel, directing another dusky laborer.
"Why, Mose," he exclaimed, "I did not hire that man. What's he doing here?"
"I got him er-doing my wuk, sah," I pays him a dollah a day, sah."
"Why, that's all you receive, Mose. How do you profit by the transaction?" asked the amazed foreman.
"Well," replied Mose, "I gets to boss de job, don't I?"

STRIKE INCITERS ARE ARRESTED

Alleged That John Zowna and Peter Zubzysky Threatened Women Employed at Davis Factory With Death If They Did Not Strike.

Attempts made the past week by strike inciters to stir up a strike among the employees at the garment factory of J. Davis Company on Broadway, near Downs street, led to the arrest of John Zowna and Peter Zubzysky, on the complaint of Mr. Davis and two of his women employees, who claim that the two men stopped them while on their way to work at the factory, and informed them that if they did not go out on strike they would be killed.

This morning Mr. Davis and the two women appeared before Recorder Lang and swore out a warrant for the arrest of the two men. Later in the morning Policemen Welsh and Connelly arrested the men and they were arraigned before Recorder Lang and the charge read to them. They both entered a plea of not guilty and the trial was adjourned to Saturday morning. Both men were released in custody of their attorney, William H. Grogan. They are Austrians and are employed at the Beacon factory in the Kennedy building on lower Broadway.

Several days ago some strikers from New York city came to Kingston, and since then efforts have been made to get the employees at the Davis factory to strike out of sympathy with the strikers in New York city where there is a big strike in progress among the garment workers.

Mr. Davis said today that his employees were well satisfied with the wages they were getting, and saw no reason why they should strike. Many of the girls and women are getting as high as $17 a week.

Since attempts were made to incite a strike at the factory two members of the police force have been stationed in front of the factory to prevent disorder.

While the two men arrested are both employed at the Beacon factory there is no labor trouble there.

The attempt to incite a strike at the Davis factory is due, the strike inciters claim, to the fact that the garments made at the factory are shipped to New York and that the factory is doing work for the factories in New York where the employees are on strike.

HURLEY.

Hurley, June 21.—Children's Sunday was observed in our church on June 18. The day began with comparatively fine weather, so much so that the village turned out in goodly numbers to attend this most interesting service. The church was decorated very prettily with the various flowers from the neighborhood while the national flag was draped over and about the pulpit. The children were at their very best and carried out the parts allotted to them with a charm and fascination that only children can give. The tiny little tots came in for their share of commendation as well as the older ones. There was plenty of singing and this is ever a most pleasing feature. Hurley Sunday school is favored with many good voices and Children's Sunday gives and opportunity for all to enjoy this most delightful feature. The recitations and verses were all appropriate to the day and also highly appreciated by the audience. Following the example of last year, there was a composite exercise entitled, "Builders of Character," where the young people erected a wall, each stone representing some sterling attribute of life; as the upper row is finished, the letters on the different stones spell the word "character." Toward the last of the exercise, the smaller girls in their pretty summer dresses decorated this wall with vines. The following is the program:
Singing by the School; "Welcome Happy Days."
Scripture Reading by Mary Arnet. Singing by the School; "Our Captain And Our King."
Prayer by Elder Lockwood.
Address of Welcome by Robert Hendrickson.
Singing by Fred Witney and Arthur Whitney.
Exercise by the Primary Class; "Little Daisies."
Singing by Three Little Rosebuds.
Exercise by the Beginners' Class.
Singing by the School; "Our Sweetest Hymns."
Exercise by Mrs. Elmendorf's Class; "Little Fairies." Song by Jennie Thielpape.
Exercise; "Builders of Character."
Solo by Theodore Thielpape.
Duet by Mary and Alice Arnet.
Exercise by Mrs. Ostrander's Class; "Blossom Bells."
Recitation by Myrtle Slater; "Christ and the Children."
Solo by Miss Moulton.
Address by Mrs. Nash.
Offering.
Reading of Notices.
Singing by the School; "Answer Aye and Aye."
James Schmidt is home from college for the summer.
Miss Hazel Rozsa is visiting with Mrs. George R. Van Sickle.
Miss Mabel Taggart after a week's visit with Miss Foerster has returned to Philadelphia.
The Misses Margaret and Edna Hiller, having attended the graduation exercises of their brother Richard at Rutgers and also after a short visit at the Hiller homestead, have returned to Poughkeepsie.
The funeral of Abram TenEyck was largely attended; aside from his old time neighbors, there was a large number from outside the village.
Dr. and Mrs. Nash went to New Paltz on Monday, visiting the normal school there.
An occasional card from Domina Durfee and Elder Elmendorf shows they are enjoying their trip to the meeting of the General Synod at Holland, Michigan.

ORGANIZING TO AID FAMILIES OF SOLDIERS

Those Who Gave So Liberally to the Belgian and Other European War Sufferers to be Asked to Aid Families of Our Own Soldiers.

Mrs. Chandler, wife of Major George Chandler, is consulting with the heads of the various organizations in this city and county that have been active in sending relief to the European war sufferers to the end that an organization be formed here that will take measures to aid the families of our own home soldiers who have been or will be called into the service. The pay of a private is only $17 a month, which is glaringly inadequate for the support of a family.

Mrs. Chandler will call on the officers of the Daughters of Isabella, the Ulster Garden Club, the local branch of the American Independence Union, and every other organization she can reach or think of that has been active in sending aid to the war sufferers in Europe and a meeting of representatives of these bodies will meet at her residence next Monday afternoon to discuss the matter. Any organization that Mrs. Chandler fails to extend a personal invitation to is invited and urged to send its representative to this meeting.

Mrs. Laura McMillan will aid in the matter of investigating applications for aid and in seeking out cases of need.

Circles of Mercy Call Kingston Women.

There will be an important meeting of the Circles of Mercy held Thursday morning at 10 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. in this city. To this meeting all the women of Kingston who are interested in the present conditions of preparedness as being carried forward by our own Company M, and the likelihood of need of such work as women can do at such a time. Possible needs and a way to meet such needs will be considered at the meeting tomorrow morning, and for this reason the women of the community are asked to be present.

MATTERS BEFORE THE SURROGATE

The will of Peter Murray of this city has been admitted to probate in the surrogate's court. The testator gives his estate to his daughters, Catherine and Mary Murray, whom he appointed executrices. The will was executed August 5, 1901, and witnessed by Christopher A. Murray and Milford B. Myers. The value of the real estate is $800 and there is no personal property. Christopher A. Murray appeared for the executrices.

A hearing was had in the matter of the judicial settlement of the account of John L. McDermitt, as administrator of the estate of John J. Sullivan of this city, and a decree was directed. Christopher A. Murray appeared for the administrator and Daniel B. Dero, for other interested parties.

Youthful patriotism finds no greater exponent than one of the privates in Company M who was given leave on Tuesday to return to one of the grade schools of the city in order to complete his regents' examinations for admission to the High School. And he went—in full regimentals. To say that boy is the hero of that school is putting it mildly. The boy's name is (deleted by censor) and the school might be "somewhere in France" for all the information obtainable at headquarters.

DUTIES OF THE HOME GUARD

The military law contains the following provisions regarding the organization of depot battalions and units:

When a regiment, the companies serving in a coast defense command, the organized battalions of the corps of engineers or a squadron or battalion not part of a regiment shall be in the actual service of the United States, the governor shall organize depot units as follows, a battalion to take the place of a regiment and such number of companies, troops or batteries as he may determine to take the place of other units.

Such depot units shall not be called on for duty outside the state except in case of emergency to be determined by the governor, but the members thereof may be transferred by him to fill temporary or permanent vacancies or to make up a deficiency in strength in the organization for which the depot unit is formed.

The governor from time to time and in advance of the entry of an organization into the actual service of the United States may appoint and commission the officers necessary for the depot unit or units authorized by this section to be formed in place of such organization by selection from the reserve list of officers in the first instance and so long as there are officers thereon available for the positions to be filled, or he may detail officers from the reserve list for such positions. He may authorize the formation of the enlisted strength of such unit or units by selection and transfer from the reserve list of non-commissioned officers and enlisted men in the first instance and so long as there are non-commissioned officers and enlisted men thereon available for the positions to be filled and in default thereof tender of or agreement for service therein in such form as he may prescribe; provided, such appointment shall be made upon the nomination of the commanding officer of the organization for which the depot unit is formed unless such organization be in the actual service of the United States, in which case the selection shall be made by election or appointment in the depot unit by the method adopted by the organization for which it is formed; and provided that the commissions authorized by this section and the appointment of non-commissioned officers of depot units shall confer upon the persons receiving such commissions or appointments, the rights and privileges of commissioned officers or non-commissioned officers, respectively of the National Guard of this state during the period that the organization for which the depot unit is formed is in the actual service of the United States and only during said period except that officers and non-commissioned officers of depot units shall have authority to exercise command in their respective units.

The governor in advance of an organization entering into the actual service of the United States may authorize the issue for its depot unit or units of such arms, equipments, colors, camp and garrison equipage, books of instruction and of record and other supplies as may be necessary for the proper performance of the duty required by this chapter and such issue may be made to an officer or officers commissioned in such depot unit under this section or to an officer or officers of the organization for which such depot unit is formed. Each officer and member of a depot unit to whom public property is issued shall be personally responsible to the state for such property to the same extent that officers and enlisted men of the National Guard are responsible for public property issued to them.

WAR STIMULATES MARRIAGE RECORD

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, June 21.—Mr. Kipling's rather sage advice to the young British soldier has struck no responsive chord in the khaki-covered hearts of Chicago troopers. The answer to Mr. Kipling's "For love won't help if your rations are cold," can be found in the records of the marriage license bureau.

There were twelve marriages of soldiers last night just before the first of the Chicago troopers departed for Springfield, and more were expected today when the others move out. Among today's will be that of Dick Dunne, son of the governor of Illinois, and Miss Frances Fitzgerald. Governor Dunne arranged a special furlough of a day for his son who is a sergeant of Battery D, Illinois National Guard.

ESOPUS.

Esopus, June 21.—The Ladies' Aid Society will hold a strawberry and ice cream festival on the M. E. Church lawn on Tuesday evening of next week, June 27. The date was first set for June 28, but has been changed to the 27th. All are invited to come and spend a pleasant evening and partake of the good things which are provided by the committee.

Despite the heavy rain which fell just at the hour when people were leaving their homes to attend the children's day exercises, a large congregation assembled at the Methodist Church to listen to the program entitled "Voices of Praise." The church was prettily decorated with roses, ferns and various other flowers. All the little girls appeared in white dresses with pretty ribbons, and the boys looked like veritable little gentlemen. All had their parts well learned and the program was rendered in a pleasing manner. Rev. Mr. Bullen gave an exceedingly interesting address, his theme being "Cleave to that which is good." He advised the children to cleave to their mother, their home and their Bible in order to become beautiful and strong in character. An offering was taken for the children's fund.

Mrs. Hasbrouck Freer and little son, Hasbrouck, Jr., have gone to Poughkeepsie to be present at a reunion of the Voti family, which will be held at the home of Mrs. Freer's father, Francis L. Mott, at 48 Academy street.

The district school closed last Thursday. The teacher, Miss Margaret Sheehan, had planned to give the children a picnic on Friday but the (almost) never ceasing rain prevented. However, after the regents' examinations are over the picnic will take place and on Thursday pupils and teacher anticipate a pleasant time.

Miss Newman of Oak Hill, a former parishioner of Rev. Mr. Bulek, visited at the parsonage last week.

Elmer Drake, wife and little daughter, Gladys, visited Mr. Drake's father and mother last week. They motored to Esopus from their home at Staatsburgh and upon their return were accompanied as far as Poughkeepsie by Mrs. Rennevan.

Mr. Drake's grandmother, who will remain in the latter city until September.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson of Springfield, Mass., recently spent the day at S. E. Mott's.

Mrs. O. E. McLain spent Sunday with Mrs. Edward Ashton, going from there to the children's day service in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Ovid Baker and two little granddaughters of Jersey City spent the week with Mrs. Baker's sister, Mrs. Alex Smith.

Mrs. Amy Sheely has somewhat improved in health since going to her father's, Mrs. Alex Smith, and her friends hope to hear of her complete recovery soon.

Perhaps Esopus will be favored with a building boom soon. Mr. Ganoung has given the opportunity by placing a sign upon his property just above the M. E. Church which reads "Building Lots For Sale."

The new sidewalk from the corner of Main street to the West Shore station was a much needed improvement and the inhabitants of this little village feel very grateful to S. E. Mott for suggesting the plan, and to all the men who so nobly responded to the call to assist with the work.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stewart went to Kingston on Saturday to be present at the marriage of Miss Carrie Hasbrouck and Dr. Charles Nickless. The bride is a niece of Mrs. Stewart.

Quite a few from this place attended the boat races at Poughkeepsie last Saturday.

Mrs. Frank Cole of Jersey City, her daughter, Elizabeth, arrived in town today for a visit to her mother, Mrs. Amy Sheeley.

Mrs. Emma Dickerson visited friends in Kingston today.

Miss Viva Freer, of the Benedictine Sanitarium, Kingston, is spending a two weeks' vacation with her mother, Mrs. Emma Freer.

Mrs. Cole of Ulster Park spent Sunday with her sister, Mrs. Charles C. Beaver, and attended the children's exercises in the evening.

GAME IN THE ANTARCTIC.

Seal Steak is Good, and So Are the Breasts and Eggs of Penguins.

In the antarctic there is not the immense variety of game which is to be found in north polar regions; but, on the other hand, it is very abundant and can be turned into food with the smallest exertion. The Weddell seal, which sometimes weighs as much as half a ton, allows itself to be killed and cut up with placid calm. Its natural enemies are in the water, and for long generations it has been accustomed to bask in the sun undisturbed.

Seal steak is an acquired taste, but when acquired explorers prefer it to tinned provisions. It is a common assumption that seal flesh tastes of train oil. That is a mistake; the flesh itself contains no fat, but it is extremely rich in blood, and in taste suggests the Scottish delicacy known as black pudding. Penguins, too, make a very desirable

OVER THE EQUATOR.

The Coldest Air Blows High Up Above This Torrid Region.

Winds blow not merely along the surface of the earth, but upward and downward throughout the atmosphere. They whirl about in all directions. So it is impossible to construct a weather chart that will really show the directions of the winds, for such a chart would have to be in three dimensions.

Professor Alexander MacDill of Harvard in an article in the Geographical Review describes some of the recent experiments in the upper air performed by sounding balloons. The atmosphere has, roughly, two layers, the lower called the troposphere and the upper the stratosphere. The strongest winds are found just below the stratosphere, and it would seem that pressure changes originate in this region.

The stratosphere is highest over the equator and lowest over the poles, but its height varies with the season. "At the equator," says Professor MacDill, "as we rise in the air the temperature continues to fall to a much greater height than in temperate latitudes. Indeed, the lowest temperature is found above the equator."

ARMED MOTORCYCLE AND TRUCK IN MEXICO.

Practically all of the trucks which have been carrying supplies in to Mexico are armed with machine guns. Many motorcycles also are equipped with rapid fire guns. The photograph shows a motorcycle and truck ready to repel an attack by Mexicans.

WASHINGTON WAITS ACTION OF MEXICO

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, June 21.—Washington waited today with eyes anxiously strained toward Mexico City. On the result of the decision to be reached there in what spirit to accept the ultimatum of President Wilson hinges peace or war between Mexico, as represented by the de facto government of General Carranza and the United States.

The general situation is growing constantly more menacing. From every point along the international boundary come reports of increasing anti-American feeling on the part of the Mexicans. Two well equipped Carranzista cavalry brigades, with plenty of mounted artillery, are within striking distance of General J. J. Pershing's expedition in Mexico. At a dozen different points south of the border other Carranzista forces are concentrated in readiness to strike. All of the Mexican commanders are reported as being intensely anti-American. And all admittedly are acting under general orders sent from General Obregon, Mexico's war minister and leader of the "anti-Gringo" element of the Mexican people.

The war and navy departments are taking every precaution to be in readiness for an open break if it comes. Light draught vessels now are in Mexican waters and within striking distance awaiting the signal to institute an ironclad blockade. Treasury officials are refusing clearance to munitions of any sort destined to Mexican territory in accordance with the policy enunciated by the president in his message to Carranza which stated that no further exports of munitions or of ammunition-making machinery, would be permitted "as long as there is any evidence of an intention on the part of the de facto government or its military commanders to use force against the American troops instead of co-operating with them." The national guard is being mobilized and the war department is perfecting its plans to rush selected units to the front in response to the insistent demand made by Major General Frederick Funston, commanding on the border.

Secretary of War Baker is in almost constant touch with the White House. He conferred with President Wilson until nearly midnight last night and saw him again early today. It is understood that the war secretary and the president finally have decided what troops shall go to the border first. Although information regarding troop movements is refused, there is little doubt that New York, Illinois, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin and one southern state not yet selected will have the first call. New York occupies a place of advantage in view of the fact that the dual oath of allegiance to the state and the union has been a part of the Empire State's militia requirements for some time past.

Just how soon these troops can be moved is not known here. General Funston's demand for reinforcements was insistent. He asked for an immediate assignment of some 35,000 men and it is expected that the selection will be made from units which are already well above peace strength and whose units can be recruited up to the limit after they have gone to the border from men in their home stations.

There is naturally grave anxiety here about the safety of the Americans still remaining in Mexico. It was expected that all Americans in Mexico City could be started on a special train so soon as Consul General Rodgers can arrange for a guard to accompany the train. Rodgers already has notified this government that Zapatistas have been very active along the line of the railroad connecting the Mexican capital with the seacoast and he was instructed to insist that the military commander at Mexico City furnish an adequate guard to the refugee train which he (Rodgers) was ordered to arrange for.

That the Mexican population expects war with the United States is indicated in all of the official dispatches received from state department agents along the border. These reports tell of a general exodus southward of the Mexican population of border towns.

The state department today still was without official confirmation of the reports that General Carranza has issued a decree calling upon all males between the ages of 15 and 35 to volunteer for service with the colors. Officials, however, are inclined to believe that this report is true in view of the reports that many Mexican males of military age who have attempted to flee into the United States have been stopped en route and impressed into the Carranzista army.

No Common Cur.

When assessing a family in Irvington the question of "what breed" was asked of the owner of the family dog. The woman of the house answered: "He's just a cur." Her six-year-old son straightened himself up to his full height, patted his dog on the head and proudly proclaimed, "Yes, and he's a full blooded cur too."—Indianapolis News.

UP GO TAXES TO MEET WAR CHARGES

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, June 21.—Tentative agreement on the tax bill which will raise the money to pay for preparedness, and to overcome the treasury deficit was reached today by the Democratic sub-committee authorized to frame the measure. The sub-committee, consisting of Majority Leader Kitchin, Representative Hull of Tennessee, the Democratic expert on direct taxation, and Representative McGillicuddy of Maine, expects to submit the completed bill to the full Democratic membership of the ways and means committee next week. The International News Service is able to present the tax bill as so far agreed upon. It would raise:

Approximately $100,000,000 by taxing inheritances and munitions of war.

About $40,000,000 by retaining a part of the special war revenue taxes, after the measure has been shorn of its burdensome stamp taxes. The income tax section of the bill is practically complete. It would double the present rate on all incomes. The basic rate under the present law is one per cent. Under the proposed bill the rate will be two per cent. There will be no lowering of the present exemption of $3,000 for single persons and $4,000 for married persons. But beginning at these figures each income will be taxed at two per cent until the surtax is imposed. Under the present plan the surtax will become operative on incomes of $15,000 and will practically double the present surtax. The sub-committee estimates that the increased tax will be evenly distributed and that with proper collection methods it will bring in upwards of $100,000,000.

The sub-committee proposes in the inheritance tax section to exempt all bequests up to $50,000. Above that figure inheritances will be taxed on a graduated scale beginning with a basic rate of 2 per cent. The sub-committee estimates that inheritances and munitions will bring in an additional $100,000,000.

Practically all of the stamp taxes imposed in the war revenue act will be eliminated by the sub-committee. These taxes brought in about $45,000,000 out of the $95,000,000 raised by the act. The remainder will be continued as special taxes.

Majority Leader Kitchin said today that the Democratic members of the committee would endeavor to have the bill complete for presentation to the full committee late next week. He declared that a vigorous effort would be made to rush the measure through the house before July 4. This program, however, was expected to meet with stern opposition from the Republican side of the house.

MEXICANS MOVE TOWARD PERSHING

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

San Antonio, Tex., June 21.—Seventeen thousand Mexican troops under General Jacinto Trevino are converging upon the American expeditionary force of Brigadier General John J. Pershing from the east and northwest, it is reported in a dispatch received today from Columbus, N. M.

The Mexicans, divided into two columns, are heading for El Valle and Namiquipa.

Scouts sent out by Brigadier General Pershing are said to have discovered the approaching Mexicans. When they reported the presence of the Carranzistas the scouts were reinforced.

Despite the seriousness of this information officers at Fort Sam Houston feel no alarm over the safety of the United States forces.

EUREKA.

Eureka, June 21.—Mahlon Donivan sold a cow and a two year old heifer to Melvin Brannan of Grahamsville.

Lincoln Whitley purchased two calves of Rance Van Wagner last week.

A number from here attended the Children's Day exercises at Low's Corners Sunday morning.

Ivan Shesley had the misfortune to run a nail in his foot Monday while helping load the carriage of Hoornbeck's mill.

Mr. and Mrs. William Osterhoudt of Middletown are expected at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Porter this week where Mr. Osterhoudt will do some carpenter work.

We are very sorry to hear that Edwin Moore of Woodbourne had the bad luck to cut one of his fingers off recently while planing some boards. We wish him good luck.

Orson J. Fuller passed away at his home Thursday, June 15. He has suffered some time with heart trouble, which was the cause of his death. He appeared to be as well as usual and went out with his wife to feed the chickens and dropped dead. He leaves a wife and daughter, Mrs. Benjamin Hill, of Eureka, and one son, Bruce, at home. They all have the sympathy of the entire community. His funeral was held Sunday at the Reformed Church at 2 o'clock. It was the largest funeral ever held in that church. The Maccabees turned out in a body and laid their beloved brother at rest.

Master Willis Everetts of Port Ewen is staying with his grandfather, Sylvester Porter, this summer.

John Hamilton has men employed repairing his house. It will be a great improvement to the place.

Mr. and Mrs. Euphratus Smith visited their son, Owen, at Sugar Loaf one day last week.

This has been a backward season. When we should have been selling summer clothes it was overcoat weather, so we have too many suits in our cabinets at this time of year, and will not carry them over. So we are going to hold this sale right in the height of the season, instead of waiting until after the season is over, so as to give our customers and friends an opportunity to get their suits early and get the good of them. You can buy high class clothes at this sale for less than they can be bought at wholesale today, as they are much higher than when we bought these clothes. Every suit in the store in this sale—sues, blacks, browns, grays, mixed, Scotchies, any model, style or color; nothing reserved.

CAMPAIGN PLANNED TO RAISE $5,000

Next Week the Y. M. C. A. Will Carry on a Four Day's Campaign to Raise That Amount—Eighty Men Will Assist in Canvassing the City.

Starting next Tuesday the Y. M. C. A. will carry on a four days' campaign to raise $5,000 to cover the current expenses of the association. The campaign will be in charge of A. H. Greeley of the New York State Y. M. C. A. Committee, who is well-known in this city, and who had charge of previous successful campaigns. He will be assisted by eight teams of ten men each, a total of eighty workers, to canvass the city. Frank R. Powley is general chairman of the teams.

Every year a certain amount of money is needed to carry on the work of the association, and the board of directors have thought it best to concentrate their efforts in a whirlwind campaign of four days' duration and collect the amount needed this year.

Further details of the campaign will be announced later.

Social Structure.

What is a social structure? It may be an ant hill or a democracy. It is usually composed of a mass of individuals banded together for mutual disagreement. It is centripetal and centrifugal. Each individual would like to get out of it, but he doesn't know how. Small masses of individuals, also banded together, would like to get out of it, but they don't know how. Larger masses of individuals banded together would like to get rid of some of the smaller masses, but they don't know how. Nobody wants everybody else to stay. Everybody doesn't want anybody to stay. The result is that nobody can get rid of anybody.

Hence the social structure.—Life.

Origin of Geometry.

There is little doubt that the science of geometry had its origin in Egypt. The annual overflow of the Nile wiped out all landmarks and boundaries, and some reliable means of measuring the earth was an absolute necessity; hence the rise of geometry, which means earth measurement. From all accounts the philosopher Thales took the science from Egypt to Greece, where it was greatly improved and carried very near the perfection it finally reached through the discoveries of the celebrated Descartes of the seventeenth century.

Prince Albert has always been sold without premiums or coupons. Quality is its standard—and my, how the millions of smokers have approved of it, too!

On the reverse side of this tin read in you will find: "Prince Albert Cigarettes July 30th, 1907."

A supply of Prince Albert awaits you wherever tobacco is sold. Topped red bags, 5c; tidy red tins, 10c; handsome pound and half-pound tin humidors and that nifty crystal-glass humidior with sponge-moistener top that keeps the tobacco in such prime shape—always!

PRINCE ALBERT

stands clear-as-a-whistle above national or state restrictions on the use of premiums or coupons because they have never been given with Prince Albert. To offer such inducements would mean that Prince Albert's quality would have to be reduced to meet their cost! We prefer to hand smokers quality.

One test of Prince Albert will prove this to your absolute satisfaction! It will prove that P. A. cannot bite, cannot parch! Your enjoyment of its fine flavor and coolness will be supreme! The patented process by which Prince Albert is made cuts out bite and parch!

Prince Albert came unheralded a few years ago; today it has made three men smoke pipes where one was smoked before and has given cigarette rollers a new idea of makin's joy. To meet the approval of such an army of men of varied tastes, P. A. must have everything we or its most enthusiastic admirers ever claimed for it.

And Prince Albert has all that! It rings true and real and you just adopt it for all time quick as you get that taste and aroma into your smokeappetite! Because, it answers the fondest tobacco desires you or any man ever did express!

DESTROYERS ORDERED TO MEXICAN COAST

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, June 21.—Because of the menacing conditions on the west coast of Mexico the navy department at 11:15 today ordered the first division of destroyers of the Pacific fleet comprising the Paul Jones, Preble, Stewart and Whipple to sail from San Diego today to take stations in Mexican waters to be assigned by Admiral Winslow commanding the Pacific fleet.

At the same time the navy department announced that it had received confirmation of the release of Ensign Kassing and Assistant Paymaster Mowat of the gunboat Annapolis, arrested by Mexicans at Mazatlan last Sunday.

PORT EWEN.

Port Ewen, June 21.—Esopus Council, No. 42, Sons and Daughters of Liberty, will meet in Hutton's Hall this evening at 8 o'clock.

The entertainment given in the Methodist Church Tuesday evening was well attended and enjoyed.

Several out of town students took the regents examinations held in Public School, No. 13, Monday and Tuesday.

Miss Mary C. Elsworth of Salem street and Mrs. Sarah A. Cole of Ulster Park were guests of Miss Julia Van Aken on Railroad avenue Tuesday.

Reginald Van Leuven, who was recently operated on at the Benedictine Sanitarium was brought to his home on Broadway Tuesday very much improved in health. Everyone was glad to welcome him home.

Mrs. Charles Van Leuven, who has been ill at her home in Sileghsburg is very much improved. Dr. G. W. Ross is the attending physician.

Chester DeGraff is laying a concrete walk in front of the Reformed Church.

Mrs. Albert Munson is ill at her home on Salem street. Dr. J. A. Decker is the attending physician.

H. E. McKenzie of Broadway is attending the Firemen's Convention at Poughkeepsie.

The annual strawberry festival of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist Church held Tuesday was a success both socially and financially.

A Turkish Theater.

At Kadi Keul, the ancient Chalcedon, is situated the one and only Turkish theater in or near Constantinople, a rickety wooden construction capable of accommodating, however, a large number of onlookers. Performances are witnessed only by men, are given three times a week and take place in broad daylight.—Argonaut.

GREEK CABINET RESIGNS AGAIN

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, June 21.—A Reuter despatch from Athens states that the Greek cabinet, headed by Premier Skouloudis, has resigned.

Official announcement of the resignation of the Skouloudis ministry was expected to be made in the Greek parliament today.

King Constantine called former Premier Zaimis to the palace and conferred with him. It is believed that the portfolio of premier was offered to M. Zaimis.

The overturn of the Greek government was brought about by the critical conditions imposed by the war. The presence of hostile armies upon Greek soil and the pressure of the allies' blockade has produced an acute situation throughout the Hellenic kingdom.

M. Zaimis is classed as a neutral.

Note:—This is the second time that the resignation of the Skouloudis cabinet has been reported since the allies' blockade of Greece has been renewed. On the first occasion, apparently, King Constantine refused to accept the resignation.

TEN CENTS WAS ALL MRS. DESHLER GOT

And That Amount She Said She Took From Husband's Pocket Saturday Night—He is Charged With Non-Support—Case Held Open.

Frederick Deshler of No. 125 Hunter street, was arrested on Tuesday afternoon on a warrant sworn out by his wife, who charged him with non-support. This morning Deshler was arraigned before Recorder Lang. It was brought out that he has steady work and earns from $12 to $15 a week. He asked that the court give him another chance and he would support his family.

When questioned as to the amount of money he gave his wife on Saturday his wife interrupted to remark that all she got was ten cents and that she had taken from his pants' pocket. Mr. Deshler explained that he had earned $12 that week but had loaned $5 to a friend.

After hearing both sides, Recorder Lang informed Deshler that if he did not support his family there was two things the court intended doing and they were locking Mr. Deshler up in jail and sending his wife and children to the alms house.

On Mr. Deshler's promise to support his family, Recorder Lang held the case open for one week.

FIGHTING IRISH LEAVE FOR CAMP

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, June 21.—Amidst thunderous applause the Sixty Ninth Regiment of the New York National Guard "The Fighting Sixty Ninth," left this morning for Camp Whitman at Beekman, N. Y., where the state militia is mobilizing for duty on the border. This is the first regiment to leave for the mobilization camp.

There were tearful scenes at the Sixty Ninth Regiment Armory as the families of the militiamen bade them good-bye, for no one could tell when the soldiers might be on the scene of fighting. Cheers and sobs mingled as the men in khaki marched away to entrain.

Linoleum for Nurseries.

The prejudice which exists against the use of linoleum for nurseries is ill founded. Not only is it easy to wash, but, with the habit all babies possess of picking things from the floor and putting them into the mouth, the microbe-killing effect of this compound of linseed oil and cork is a useful safeguard. A bare wooden floor especially of soft pine, is particularly harmful, as it provides a good breeding place for germs.

RAILROAD SALE IS SET ASIDE

Catskill Mountain Railroad Must Be Sold Again, First Sale Being Void, According to Judge Hasbrouck's Decision.

Judge Hasbrouck has handed down a decision on the application made recently before him by James P. Philip of Catskill to set aside the sale of the Catskill Mountain Railway Company's property, which was purchased by Eben E. Olcott, president of the Hudson River Day Line, and for a re-sale of the property, the decision of Judge Hasbrouck granting the petition for Mr. Philip.

The Catskill Mountain Railway runs from the village of Catskill, Palenville, and was constructed a number of years ago. The facts on which the application of Mr. Philip was based are stated in Judge Hasbrouck's opinion.

There were mortgages on the property aggregating $292,000. Of these mortgages, one mortgage secured an issue of first mortgage bonds amounting to $39,000; one secured an issue of second mortgage first income bonds amounting to $238,000; and another secured an issue of second income bonds amounting to $15,000.

William Palmatier, as substituted trustee for the benefit of the first income bonds instituted an action to foreclose mortgages securing the second mortgage income bonds, and besides to apply the proceeds of the sale to the payment of outstanding receiver's certificates and the first mortgage bonds.

The railroad is operated approximately from May until November of each year to accommodate traffic between the mountain resorts and the village of Catskill. Preparation for the entertainment of summer guests and their arrival commences about the first of May. The suit brought by Mr. Palmatier proceeded to a judgment of foreclosure and sale and the sale was advertised for April 17 of this year at the court house at Catskill, on which day several persons interested in the bonds appeared as bidders. The terms of sale were in the usual form, ten per cent down and payment of the balance at the office of the referee, Orloff T. Heath, at Catskill, on April 25. Interests in control of the road bid $27,100 for the property, Mr. Philip bid $28,000 and the property was struck down to him. He paid the ten per cent and signed the terms of sale, which provided among other things:

"The bidding will be kept open after the premises and property have been struck off to a bidder, and in case any purchaser shall fail to comply with these terms of sale, or any part thereof, the premises and property so struck off to him will be again put up for sale, under the direction of said referee, under the same terms of sale, without application to the court, unless the plaintiff's petition, and such purchaser shall be held liable for any deficiency there may be between the sum for which said premises and property shall be struck off upon the present sale and that for which they may be purchased on a re-sale, and also any costs or expenses occurring on such re-sale."

Mr. Philip applied to the referee for an extension of time to complete the purchase, stating that there was not sufficient time for him to ascertain the validity of the title and freedom from liens of the defendant company, nor time to organize a new corporation to take over the operation of the franchise and property. The referee, after communicating with the plaintiff's attorney, refused to grant the request.

On April 24, Mr. Philip procured an order to show cause, with a stay of the sale, returnable at Kingston on May 6, why he should not be granted additional time. About mid-day of April 25, which was the day Philip was to complete his payment under the terms of sale, the stay was vacated. Philip failed to pay the balance of the purchase price in accordance with the terms of sale on April 25, and the referee after ascertaining that Mr. Philip did not intend to complete his purchase, put the property up for sale at the office of the referee and re-sold it for $28,000 to E. E. Olcott and others, who had bid $27,100 at the sale on April 17. On May 3, Mr. Philip made a second motion, returnable May 6, at Kingston, for an extension of time, the cancellation of the deed to Mr. Olcott, the reinstatement of the sale to Mr. Philip or for a properly advertised sale.

"The action," says Judge Hasbrouck in his opinion, "should have been timed to have secured a sale at an earlier date in the year, having reference to the season of beginning the operation of the railroad. But it was not, and the court was compelled to deal with the situation as it existed, and therefore did not undertake to postpone the day of completion with the terms of sale. Under the facts, three questions are presented for determination:

"1. Should Philip's time to complete his purchase be extended? He requested additional time for the reasons that he did not know about the title to nor the liens against the property, and desired to search the title and ascertain the liens. The property had been incumbered by the mortgages since 1885, and in the same ownership for thirty years; the record of liens and incumbrances was in the court house near to Philip's office, and a search could have been made for them in half a day. It is not at all apparent to the court that additional time was needed for any such purpose. Nor was additional time needed to catalogue the property. That should have been attended to before the bidding. It would hardly be claimed to be reasonable conduct to bid upon the property, the extent or character of which was unknown to the bidder. Philip further claimed the completion of the sale should be postponed until he had an opportunity to form a new corporation to take over the operation of the road and franchises. This was entirely unnecessary, for the statute provides that an individual purchaser at the sale of a railroad may operate for six months until a corporation has been formed for such purpose.

"Though the court was not impressed with these reasons for the extension of time, yet it would have granted it were not that other than private interests were involved; consideration of the traveling public, their means of access and egress to and from the villages and places where summer entertainment is furnished and the shipping of supplies thereto, led the court to the conclusion that the operation of the railroad should be commenced as soon as possible after the date of the sale."

The second question says Judge Hasbrouck, is, had the referee any right to set the property up for sale at his office on the failure of Mr. Philip to complete his purchase on April 25? The sale being authorized by the judgment of foreclosure is regulated by Section 1678 of the Code.

"The terms of the statute were complied with by the referee by advertising a public auction, and offering and selling the property at the same. The applicant Philip, by bidding and having his bid accepted, and submitting to the terms of sale and paying the ten per cent became the purchaser. He says that when he failed to comply with its terms the referee had the power to put up the premises and property for sale, or if the plaintiff's attorney was desirous of holding him for a deficiency, he might apply to the court upon notice to him for an order decreeing a re-sale.

Anthony v. Bachelor, 5 N. Y. Sup. 793. Chase v. Chase, 15 Abb. N. C. 95. What he did and what the respondents claim he had the right to do was, when the purchaser failed to pay the balance of the purchase price at the office, to put the property and premises up for sale at his office and re-sell it immediately. They claim the conduct of the referee to be justified by what the Appellate Division, First Department, said in Egan v. Buellbach, 116 App. Div. 309, speaking of terms of sale identical with those above quoted.

"These terms of sale have been in use for many years and are perfectly familiar to all purchasers at judicial sales. There should be no question but that if the referee had immediately upon the purchaser's stopping payment of the check and refusing to comply with the terms of sale put the property up for re-sale, without application to the court, the purchaser would have been liable for any deficiency.

"I do not understand the language to mean that the property could be immediately offered for sale without advertising in the newspaper and posting the notice. What it does mean is that the property and franchises could be immediately re-advertised and noticed and thus put up for re-sale. This word 'immediately' as used by the court in the language heretofore quoted from the Egan case has reference to putting up for sale without mediation of a court order. Thus interpreted it is in harmony with reason and with the cases. When the property is struck off and the terms of sale signed and completed, as far as required on the sale day, and the bidders have departed, and the day faded into the past, the referee cannot call again without compliance with the statute. In Jones v. Noll, 9 Neb. 255, the sheriff had sold some real estate to old Colby for $1,995. He failed to complete his purchase, and the sheriff an hour after the sale, came back to the place thereof re-sold. The court held:

"He cannot wait until the sale is closed and the bidders have departed before again offering the property for sale."

In the case of Bernard v. Dunne, 80 Am. Dec. 416, 38 Missouri, 170, the court discussing a similar situation where bidders had departed, says:

"Upon the refusal to accept it (the deed), the trustee proceeded at once to put up the property for sale again at the same place on the same day, without re-advertising or any new notice, and few persons being present, the property was resold for twenty-five dollars. This proceeding can neither be justified nor sustained. It was in practical effect a sale without notice. The sale as advertised had taken place several hours before, and all the bidders had departed. Though yet within the hours mentioned in the advertisement it cannot be considered a fair and valid sale pursuant to notice."

It is not pretended that the sales in the two above described cases were under terms of sale like those in the case at bar. The point is that for a sale held at the office of the referee eight days after the first sale, there was no notice, no publication. That there were at the referee's office bidders was an accident. In a sale so held the very purposes of the statute were ignored. The referee is authorized to sell by the decree as directed by the statute. If the sale

Bricknell v. Byrnes, 23 How. Pr. 486. Gross v. Janesok, 16 Daly, 346. Hewlett v. Davis, 3 Edw. Ch. 357. Home Ins. Co. v. Jones, 45 How. Pr. 498. Albany Law Journal, Vol. 27, page 508. Lents v. Craig, 15 How. Pr. 72. Abb. Pr. 294. Thomas on Mortgages, 3d Ed., Sec. 988.

The judgment of foreclosure cannot be executed at a private sale. Ely v. Matthews, 128 App. Div. 515. Vannerson v. Cord, 1 Miss. Ch. 345.

The only manner in which a deficiency judgment on the bond or against a purchaser for refusing to comply with the terms of sale can be determined is by a public sale. Nesbit v. Knowlton Hall Co., 45 Misc. 513.

These reasons and cases leave little doubt but that this referee was without power to resell without re-advertising and reposting. The distinctive features of a public sale are, advertisement published in a newspaper, notices posted in public places, exposure for sale of the thing to be sold in a public place. A sale not having such features could not be a public sale. The vice in this case was a private sale.

"The third question is, had Philip the right to complain of the sale? It may be claimed that having refused to complete his purchase and being excused from payment of a deficiency by the order vacating the stay, he is in no position to challenge the validity of the resale. I think the matter jurisdictional. There was no authority for the sale had nor for the acceptance of any other bid after the day of the first sale.

May v. May, 11 Paige, 202. Philip did nothing after the sale of the 25th of April to waive his right to bid.

The order vacating the stay as far as it excused Philip from the payment of a deficiency is vacated and a resale ordered. If less than $28,000 be realized at the resale, application may be made to the court to fix the liability and amount of the deficiency which Philip should be required to pay because of failure to complete his purchase on the original sale. The purchaser at the office sale should be repaid out of the proceeds of the resale money necessarily spent in opening and placing in readiness for the railroad for operation. The same referee is appointed. Order may be settled June 24, at 10 a. m., in supreme court chambers, court house, Kingston, N. Y.

Hon. Marcus T. Hun of Albany appeared for Mr. Philip and the motion; Osborn, Bloodgood & Wilbur of Catskill appeared in opposition.

MAORIS CHAMPION TREE CHOPPERS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Near the British Front in France, June 21.—The Maoris of New Zealand are the champion tree chopping of the nationalities in the British army. They won their title in a great match against the Canadians and Australians.

It is said of the Maoris that many of them are too large to be accepted in the army. Almost all are giants.

For some time there had been keen rivalry on the subject of axe-throwing, so General Birdwood decided to have the question settled in open contest. There was a goodly company of men in the forest, where they had followed the sign-posts through the glades to the rendezvous in the heart of it. The sun that filtered through the beech leaves and shot golden arrows between the tall, straight trunks, gloved on the bronzed face of men who have come into this twilight of the French woods from the glare of the Egyptian desert and the rocks of Gallipoli.

Under their slouch hats, those clean-cut, clean-shaven boys of Australian and New Zealand, look at home in the forest, of a kinship with the trees, and out of the thick undergrowth so rich and green in the fresh splendor of this May, came browner and darker men. Gypsy-faced fellows, who are the very children for forest-life. With axes over their shoulders, came the Maori wood-cutters, keen for victory.

There was an Anzac band among the trees, playing ragtime, and to this music the first axe was set to work, at a signal from the judges, who were mostly brigadiers. A number of trees had been marked out, and their girth had been measured nicely. Three men of one team competed with three men of another, and each team had three trees to fell, the aggregate time being reckoned for the award. Australians and New Zealanders competed with Canadians in each class of event.

The Canadians were fine men, and they handled their axes with a cool craft, leisurely and that bit out great chunks waist high in the stout tree-trunks. But the Australians were faster. Astonishingly fast. Their service axes rose and fell with sharp stabbing blows that sliced through the trees so that the fillets fell like snow flakes. A great shout went up when the first tree was cut in two by one of those Australians.

But it was New Zealand which carried off the first prize for felling, and the Maoris won it easily. Their axe-throwing was beautiful to see, its swiftness and strength. There was a song of strength in the bodies of these brown men, swinging with a perfect harmony of physical energy to the long sweeping strokes of the axe. Their arms were bare to the shoulders of their cotton vests, and their muscles flowed up and down in sinuous waves.

The aggregate time in which they felled their three trees was 22 minutes 40 seconds, which was better by

23 minutes than the Canadians, whose aggregate time was 45 minutes, 22 seconds. This difference is greater than it might have been because the Canadians did not produce their best team in time for the competition. It was the Canadians, however, who won the cross-cut sawing.

The Factory Behind the Food

More than forty different kinds of corn flakes were prepared experimentally before New Post Toasties were finally developed to perfection. As a distinguishing feature, note the tiny bubbles on each flake—raised by the quick, intense heat of a new, patented process of manufacture.

New Post Toasties are the first corn flakes with a self-developed flavour—the full, true flavour of choice white Indian Corn—unlike common "corn flakes" that depend largely on cream and sugar for their palatability.

Try a handful dry—this simple test will demonstrate the delicious new flavour. But the flakes are usually served with cream or rich milk.

New Post Toasties do not "chaff" or crumble in the package, and they "stand up" when cream or milk is added. They're untouched by human hands and put up in moisture-proof packages to preserve their oven freshness until served.

TRUE TALES TOLD BY TRAVELERS

It does not always fall to the lot of traveling salesmen to have unusual experiences, although by the nature of their occupation they have their full share.

The stories opened with the tale of a traveling man who had found himself late one night at the end of a small railway branch line. The train had waited to make connection with the express train on the main line and was two hours late in pulling in the place, so that his arrival at midnight found the station closed and himself the only arrival there. As soon as he alighted the train backed into the darkness and he was alone. The town did not boast a policeman or a nightwatchman, so he trudged down the dark street in search of a hotel. The street was lighted with oil lamps, which flicked dimly. Every store, every house and every other building was in gloom, and when he reached the last gas light which denoted the village limits he had not seen any building which resembled a hotel.

Then he turned back, and by lighting matches in front of every building which looked like a hotel, he finally found an unpretentious looking place with the name "Hotel" painted above the door. He turned the door knob and the door swung open. From the hallway in which he found himself he walked to the office, which was in darkness. A light glimmered at the top of the stairway and he walked upstairs calling out "Hello, there," at each step, but waiting for a reply that never came. Near the light in the upper hallway was an open door, and he walked in the room. With the aid of matches he undressed, and then recalled that he wanted to be called early, so he wrote on one of his business cards a request to be called at seven o'clock and left the card on the hallway stand where the light was burning. There was no lock on the door, but he was too weary to pay much attention to that and soon was asleep.

Sometime in the morning, he heard a rap at his door and looked at his watch. It was eight o'clock.

"I see we had a visitor we didn't know of," said the proprietor, who entered in answer to the commercial man's "Come in." The traveling man explained how he had come to take possession of the room and the proprietor told him the night train into the town was sometimes late and for that reason he always left the front door unlocked so that the travelers who were accustomed to stopping there could get in without any trouble and find their own rooms.

"We came near missing you," continued the proprietor. "I blew out the light without noticing your card, but my wife happened to go through the hall awhile ago and stopped to see what it said. She told me to wake you up."

"I can get breakfast, I suppose," said the traveler.

"No-o," drawled the proprietor. "You see, my wife and her sister left on the six o'clock train this morning and I don't know how to cook. You can pay me now, and when you're dressed and go out, just close the front door after you."

"Where are you going?" asked the traveling man.

"O, I'm going fishing," said the proprietor, as he pocketed the half-dollar he had charged for the traveler's lodgings.

When Feather Beds Are Out of Place.

This reminded a second traveler of a vacation he intended to take at a small hotel in a country village of which he often had heard but never visited. He had been working hard and the doctor recommended quiet, with plenty of rest and sleep, with good meals and large quantities of fresh air. The traveler arranged by letter for a two weeks' stay at the village hotel and arrived there in time for supper. The meal was all he could desire. At night when he went to his room he found the windows nailed shut and borrowed a hammer to remove the nails. When he stepped into bed he found an unusually deep feather bed covering the mattress. Feather beds are warm in the winter, but they are also warm in summer, and this was August. The traveler was fast falling asleep when a tap at the door was followed by an injunction from the proprietor to close his window, as the draft was sucking under the door and through the hall into his own room, where his wife was catching cold. After a sleepless night spent in sweltering and swearing the traveler cancelled his stay the following morning and returned home.

Another traveler had never slept in a feather bed but he, too, had had an experience in a country hotel in a remote section of the country. He retired early intending to read himself to sleep, and was in the midst of an exciting tale when a shadow crossed the page of his magazine, and started at the shadow he turned his head in time to see what looked like a rat crawling leisurely along the counterpane several inches from his head, between him and the light. Closer examination showed it was only a household insect which feeds on human beings and makes its habitat in bed rooms and beds, from which its name is derived. He seized it and dropped it from the window and after examining the counterpane for its mate, without finding it, he retired again and continued his interrupted story.

Another shadow across the page of the magazine disclosed the presence of the mate, which followed the fate of the first bug and was dropped out of the window. Then the traveler dressed and went to the office, where the proprietor assured him the room had been vacant for several weeks after having had a thorough cleaning, and while there might have been two visitors, there was no possibility of more appearing.

The proprietor was closing the hotel for the night, and as he turned out the last light before turning in, he invited his guest to notify him in the morning if he should have any more midnight visitors, and feeling secure, the traveler retired for a third time to his bed.

Barely had he finished the story he was reading when something attracted his eyes toward the door, and crawling over the sill he beheld an insect as big as both of those he had seen before. He seized the magazine and making a leap for the door, he dispatched his third nocturnal visitor. The evidence had scarcely been removed when a fourth visitor, even bigger than his predecessors, came crawling under the door. If he had had a microscope, the guest is certain he would have noticed an expectant expression on the face of his visitor as he scented fresh blood. The fourth visitor went the way of the others, and then the traveler dressed. Then placing the lamp in a safe position, he turned the light out and went to bed. The hall under the door, he seized a pile of magazines and books, and seating himself close to the door, he awaited the onslaught which by now he was certain would follow. He was not disappointed. Hour after hour through the night he whacked and banged as the visitors came trooping, first single, then in couples and then in files, platoons, companies, battalions and regiments beneath the door. Unaccustomed to such strenuous physical exercise, his arms ached before many hours, but still he continued, for safety prevented him from following a policy of watchful waiting or inactivity of any kind; it was a case of survival of the fittest.

At daybreak he seized his grips and fled from the hotel throwing a dollar bill on the hotel register as he dashed madly through the office. At the station he felt safe, and there he waited until the first train arrived, which would carry him to another place where he had business. A few days later he learned that the only customer he had hoped to see in the town he had fled had died two days before his arrival and the funeral was held the day he left.

A Temperance Lesson That Was Lost.

The other member of the party had traveled extensively in the middle west and he solemnly warned his fellow travelers against visiting a certain town not many miles from Indianapolis, where he put up for the night. The proprietor of the only hotel the village boasted was also the village barber, justice of the peace, undertaker, postmaster and real estate broker and he combined the duties of all those occupations with taxidermy as a fine art. The traveler was too greatly overwhelmed as he read the signs over the hotel desk to ask questions, especially when the proprietor informed him that the telephone linemen were occupying all his bedrooms and there was not a place where any traveler could sleep unless it was the "side parlor." The town was on a branch line railroad which ran as far as the town and then stopped. The train schedule called for one train out the following day, and as there was no livery or any vehicle of any sort to be obtained the traveler decided to use the "side parlor."

He spent the early part of the evening visiting the different stores where he expected to do business, and then listened to the trial of a case in the hotel office until it was time to go to sleep. There were no curtains at the windows, so he undressed in the dark. Instead of a bed, the room possessed only on old fashioned leather lounge through the worn covering of which protruded springs from which the spring had disappeared, leaving only sharp points which prodded him in the back throughout the night. With aching back and almost believing that the hotel proprietor would be called on to perform his duties as undertaker, the drummer opened his eyes at the first sign of dawn. Across the room glared two balls of fire. He blinked and looked in another direction. Two more glowing orbs were glaring at him. Turning his head as best he could after having had the pointed end of a spring prodding his neck during the night, the traveler saw balls of fire glaring at him from every direction—from walls, ceiling, floor and not more than three feet away was a shapeless mass from which glowed only one ball. All the balls looked like eyes. The traveler was not frightened but he felt uneasy, and he searched his conscience for any cause which might make him see visions, interspersing the searching process with attempts to think coherently on the effect produced on the nerves by sleeping on springs such as he knew the old lounge had once contained. At the same time he began to notice a peculiar odor. He realized that daylight was near and determined to keep his eyes shut until he heard someone stirring about the hotel, because if protection was needed he would then be better justified in calling for help than in the fearsome semi-darkness through which nothing could be distinguished clearly.

At the end of half an hour—it seemed like a day to the traveling man, he heard someone moving in the next room, and then the door opened. He opened his eyes and saw the proprietor standing before him. Above the doorway and on either side of it he saw stuffed animals of all descriptions—everything that is smaller than an elephant—and gazing around the room he saw the walls lined with other animals, all with their mouths open and all with bright glaring eyes. The proprietor-taxidermist explained that the unusually bright eyes he used in finishing the animals he stuffed were made especially for him and he thought they produced a better effect than the usual eyes which are placed in animals.

"I suppose I ought to ask your pardon," he added, "for letting you sleep alongside the work bench without taking out the carcass I was working on yesterday afternoon when you came," as the same time lifting a dead animal from a table three feet away from the traveler's lounge. It was from this stand that the peculiar odor had emanated which the traveler noticed when he awoke. "It's lucky you didn't throw your arms around," added the taxidermist, as he reached over and from the back of the lounge unfastened two half-stuffed snakes. "Did you stay there long?" asked one of the listeners. "Not even for breakfast," replied the traveling man. "I sometimes wonder, though, what would have been the result if I had been a drinking man and had taken a drink or two before going to sleep that night."

THOSE ROXNOR BUNGALOWS.

Charming as Their Names, They Are Ideal Summer Homes.

Fully as charming as their names are the cozy bungalows in the Roxnor Colony, a refined community in the southern Catskills about 30 miles from Kingston and which is fast becoming the Mecca of local nature-loving autoists in search of the truly wild scenery in their journeys. Local hunters for the unique in summer entertainment find these cottages intensely interesting, scattered as they are, among the trees on a hillside.

Cherry Bounce, Ja Top Crow's Nest, Peter Pan, and Pokebonnet are the unassuming names by which some of the cottages are called. Other members of the community of bungalows are the Little House in the woods, Briar Patch, the summer home of Mrs. C. V. Van Anda, wife of one of the prominent editors of the New York Times and a participant in the recent Ulster County Woman Suffrage Convention; Pussy Willows, La Casita del Monte, Woodbourne, Tree Tops, Sumachs, the domicile of Dr. Parker of Chicago University; Hillside, tenanted by Miss M. E. Richmond, one of the secretaries of the Russell Sage Foundations; Green Gables, its associate, Seven Gables, Sunbank, As You Like It and Thendara, the pride of their owners, who anticipate a summer in quiet Roxnor with much more pleasure than a winter in their formal city homes.

His Bicycle Was Stolen.

James S. Fuller of No. 170 Albany avenue, has reported to the police the theft of an Iver Johnson bicycle with a Boy Scout name plate, 18 inch red frame with green stripes. The wheel was also equipped with rubber handle grips.

Work and Leisure.

There is room enough in human life to crowd almost every art and science in it. If we pass "no day without a line"—visit no place without the company of a book—we may with ease fill libraries, or empty them of their contents. The more we do, the more we can do; the more busy we are, the more leisure we have.—Hazlitt.

ing up some other company in the attalion to the desired strength.

Men Are Wanted.

Handbills headed "50 men wanted
to serve their Country," are being circulated today and all interested persons are urged to inquire at the armory. "We Must Have 50 Men Before Friday" is another emphatic
note on the poster.

In connection with this recruiting campaign, Captain Meagher plans to have a flying squadron at work in the city and vicinity within the next two days bringing in men anxious to join the company but holding off through lack of knowledge of requirements or some other insufficient reason or other. Automobiles have been donated for the use of the captain and recruiting officers and an energetic campaign is anticipated in this direction.

Company M Doing Its Share.

Some surprising figures are being turned in the recruiting of new members for the Tenth Regiment
and it is now believed that the enthusiasm shown and the added strength of this important unit of the Third Brigade will be a determining factor in the Governor's decision as to what regiments shall go to the border and what ones stay
in camp.

Company M is doing its share in recruiting as a look at headquarters
in the armory will show. There men are running back and forth under the direction of the medical examiner,
Captain Cranston, and records made
of their physical condition upon which their admission to the ranks largely depends.

Drill Attracted Hundreds.

Discovery was made Tuesday that
the guardsmen at the present stage
of the game are eligible to draw pay
at the rate of $1.25 a day from the state until mustered into the federal service. Then the regular army pay begins. The amount of that was a subject of varying opinions today.
It is said to be $17 a month but the clothing and other allowances under which a man by being careful can effect considerable saving, brings it up to more than twice that figure in the opinion of local officers.

Drill on the athletic field attracted several hundred spectators this morning and considerable interest is being manifested by the public.
This afternoon an even larger crowd
was in evidence with prospects for a good-sized number of spectators at
"retreat" which is sounded in front of the armory at 5 o'clock.

Bits of Social Shrapnel—Aimed from
the Armory.

Rations continue good. The high cost of living has ceased to worry
the robust appetites of some men.
What most of 'em are crying for,
however, is hot tamales and frijoles.
They're only served on the other side of the border.

Somewhat is said to have "sicked"
the ladies' relief organizations onto tobacco and candy as little luxuries which are quite as useful in their way as bandages and things of which the surgeon thinks he already has a sufficient supply. Votes-for-women's consignments of cigarettes say we.

There are very few "rookies" in Company M and the few there are keep busy in the effort to get out of that squad as soon as possible. The press, we trust, will recall that in speaking of Troop M and bear light
on the objectionable term.

The girls we're going to leave behind us are bearing up pretty well so far but the fair damsel who nearly fainted in front of the armory Tuesday better look out she doesn't get sought on a bayonet.

Some of the girls are anxious to
put off a button or two as a souvenir.
But if they only knew the work it
means for the soldier laddie to sew
that button back, they'd urge a domestic science course at Plattsburg
and in the militia.

Private Kelly talks in his sleep as ure as pigs is pigs. He was trying to auction one off in a somnambulic seance during the night.

Handling freight on the West shore helped Private M. R. Lockwood, who has been detailed to assist Captain Meagher in the matter
of moving supplies.

Major Chandler himself was short-landed until Private Martin Netter expert stenographer, was assigned to be major's staff.

Private Ebert Humphrey is on the cook detail. In civic life he's a baker but at the armory the boys say he's a hummer.

Christopher Perry, master butcher, is handy with the cook detail's machetes. He is already called the

"village cut-up."

One "rookie" was detected walking barefoot on the armory floor and was hazed somewhat proper, standing on the cold tiles for an hour
practicing "hayfoot, strawfoot."

One anxious mother was made
more so when she heard someone talking about "spuds" on the bill of fare. She thought it was awful her boy should have to eat such stuff
until somebody said "spuds" meant strawberries and cream. The term is applied to whole boiled potatoes
in military tactics.

The second night was quiet compared to the first Captain Meagher's statement that when men were noisy
at night it meant they did not have work enough by day quieting the noisy ones. At least either that or
the long drill out doors did it.

Major Chandler and his staff
found the morale of the men excellent. Major-General O'Ryan has discovered the same thing in the other regiments but "the Tenth, the Tenth, the Tenth will beat them to
it!"

By the way, one copy of The Freeman for 125 men is getting it down pretty fine. Some enterprising newsboy could reap a harvest with papers
at the armory each evening or else
the office might send up a few sample copies. (We're on.)

The medical examination is stiff
and it is no cinch getting passed through. Lots of men are turned down and the medical rooms of the armory are busy scenes these days.

Origin of Satin.

The discovery of the principle of the manufacture of satin was a pure accident. The discovery was made by a silk weaver named Octavio Mai. During a dull period of business one day
he was pacing before his loom, not knowing how to give a new impulse to his trade. As he passed the machine each time he pulled short threads from
the warp and, following an old habit,
put them into his mouth and rolled
them about, soon after spitting them upon the floor. Later he discovered a little ball of silk upon the floor of his shop and was astonished at the brilliancy of the threads. He repeated the experiment and eventually employed various mucilaginous preparations and succeeded in making satin.

Deaf as an Adder.

The expression "deaf as an adder" is
from the Psalms of David, where it appears in the following form: "Their poison is like the poison of serpents.
They are like the deaf adder that stop-
peth her ear, which will not hearken
to the voice of charmers, charming ever so wisely." East Indian travelers tell us that there is a widely prevailing superstition in the east to the effect that both the viper and the asp stop their ears when the charmer is uttering his incantations or playing his music by turning one ear to the ground and twisting the point of the tail into the other.

Wool Jersey is extensively used for sport wear and is especially attractive in the three piece suits.
Here a frock and long coat is developed in golden brown wool Jersey and is attractively trimmed with rows of white bone buttons. The Mexican straw hat with its bandana is simple and attractive with this outfit.

CHANDLER TALKS TO ROTARY CLUB

Members of the Rotary Club in weekly luncheon assembled at the Hotel Elchler today drafted Major George Chandler for a speaker in place of County Bacteriologist Raymond Sanderson who had been called to Pennsylvania. The major's long suit is preparedness and, obliged to come across by fellow Rotarians, he

MAJOR GEORGE CHANDLER.

gave an eloquent discussion of "Recruiting."

Applause marked the close of the speaker's appeal to patriotism and his recital of the difficulties encountered in getting men because so many believed the situation on the border was merely a flash in the pan.

At the conclusion of the speech
the Rotary Club members all volunteered to go to the armory at 6:30 o'clock tonight and sing the marching song composed by Major Chandler and dedicated by him to the Tenth Regiment.

MUDHOOK ROAD UP TO ITS NAME

People who have occasion to use
the road between Tillson and the Springtown school house are getting ready to do something that will be very unpleasant to the highway authorities of the town of Rosendale
and also of the county because of
the wretched condition of the road,
due partly to the weather and partly to neglect or inefficiency of public officials.

A month or more ago furrows were plowed alongside the road and some of this mud scraped into the roadway. Then the highway "workers" went away and left this mess for people to get over or through as best they could. A Springtown man who came through on Tuesday with a four horse team says his wagon sank to the hubs and he came very near never getting through this mud, unless sinking out of sight
might be termed getting through.

Automobiles get stuck and the way the mud has been piled up the roadway is only about eight feet in width in many places, making it impossible for vehicles to pass one another. If the roadway hardens it will be more dangerous than at present. Complaints have been made to the county authorities but no action has resulted. An appeal to the courts is next in order and will not be long delayed.

LANTERNS IN CHINA.

Of All Sizes, Shapes and Prices, They
Are in Common Use.

Particularly gay and attractive are
the shops of the lantern venders in the Chinese cities.

All varieties of lanterns are to be seen—the large silken ones three and four feet high, gorgeously painted with variegated colors, embroidered in gold and silver or decorated with deep fringe of the same material, costing from $100 to $200 and used by the wealthy mandarins and others, and common small horn and paper lanterns, used by the coolies, which cost one-
sixteenth of a dollar.

The mode of making horn lanterns is very ingenious; the horns are cut into remarkably thin slices which, by means of heat and pressure, are joined together and formed into various shapes; round, square, hexagon, octagon, and some shaped to resemble an hourglass.

It is usual for servants, after sunset,
to carry before their masters large lanterns made either of horn or highly varnished paper, with the name, title and dignities painted in large letters thereon.

At the feast of lanterns, which takes place in the early part of the Chinese
New Year, these lantern shop proprietors reap a rich harvest, as it is customary for parents to make presents of lanterns to their children,
brother to sister, friend to friend, inferior to superior, and vice versa.

Harmony in the Leaves of a Tree.

One of the remarkable characteristics of a tree is the process of leafage,
and if we examine the bough upon
which the leaves grow the admiration
of the scientific agriculturist will become thoroughly aroused over the perfect consistency and artistic skill manifested in the arrangement of each spray and the exact number of leaves arranged with the most exquisite art
and regularity. Every group of leaves forms merely long lines, no two alike,
no two in the same position, yet all so perfect and harmoniously blended that there can be no antagonism, no sameness and all those thousands and thousands of strange and delicate forms grouped together, neither confused nor ill arranged.

Pretty Lazy.

"Frisbie is the laziest man I ever knew."

"What makes you think so?"
"He actually seems to be glad that he's getting baldheaded, so that he won't have to comb his hair any more."

LADY MERCER NAIRNE.

BARON ASTOR'S SON TO WED.

London, June 21.—Capt., the Honorable John Jacob Astor, youngest son of the former William Waldorf Astor, now Baron Astor of Hever Castle, is soon to marry Lady Mercer Nairne. It is announced today.
Young Astor, who is an officer in the First Life Guards and champion racquet player of the British army, was appointed by the king as a lieutenant in the Life Guards in 1906. He was wounded in a battle in the war, but the nature of his wounds was never disclosed.

Lady Mercer Nairne is the widow of Lord Charles George Francis Nairne, who was killed in the fighting in France, in October, 1914. He was a major in the First Dragoons. His widow was Lady Violet Mary Elliot, daughter of the fourth earl of Minto, former viceroy of India.
She spent much of her time in the United States when her father was Governor-General of Canada.

John Jacob Astor, Jr., is a nephew by marriage of Mrs. Madeline Force Astor, who is to be married Thursday in Bar Harbor to William K. Dick. He went through Eton and entered the English army in 1906.
He gained fame in the army in 1908, when he won the racquet championship.

He was appointed in 1913 aide-de-camp to Lord Hardings. His regiment was among the earliest sent with the British forces to France.

He holds title to $5,500,000 worth of downtown Manhattan real estate, including the site of the old Astor House, the Exchange Court Building and the office building at Nos. 8-12 Wall street. His father transferred it to him last July to escape inheritance taxes. He is heir, of course, to other vast properties upon his father's death.

The gazetting of Young Astor in the Life Guards by King Edward was the first indication that his father, William Waldorf Astor, was acquiring the royal favor he had long sought.

The Governor's Quick Wit.

While talking to a former governor
of Illinois, who was noted for the quickness of his wit, an English tourist spoke with special fervor of a sight
he had seen in another state.

"I attended a Sunday service for the inmates of the state prison," he said, "and I learned that of the 208 persons now confined there all but twelve voluntarily attend religious services held in the prison chapel twice
each Sunday."

"Most extraordinary," said the governor musingly. "I am sorry to say it is not so with us. But then," he added soberly, "in Illinois, you see, most of the respectable people do not come to prison."

GOOD AND EVIL.

The very best gifts, those that
we should covet above all others
if we understood their real value,
are not those which may or may not chance to come to us,
but those which must inevitably follow us when we are good and true, faithful and wise. The worst calamities are not those which may come upon us unaware, but those which follow from our own conscious wrongdoing.

WASHINGTON WAITS ACTION OF MEXICO

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, June 21.—Washington waited today with eyes anxiously strained toward Mexico City. On the result of the decision to be reached there in what spirit to accept the ultimatum of President Wilson hinges peace or war between Mexico, as represented by the de facto government of General Carranza and the United States.

The general situation is growing constantly more menacing. From every point along the international boundary come reports of increasing anti-American feeling on the part of the Mexicans. Two well equipped Carranzista cavalry brigades, with plenty of mounted artillery, are within striking distance of General J. J. Pershing's expedition in Mexico. At a dozen different points south of the border other Carranzista forces are concentrated in readiness to strike. All of the Mexican commanders are reported as being intensely anti-American. And all admittedly are acting under general orders sent from General Obregon, Mexico's war minister and leader of the "anti-Gringo" element of the Mexican people.

The war and navy departments are taking every precaution to be in readiness for an open break if it comes. Light draught vessels now are in Mexican waters and within striking distance awaiting the signal to institute an ironclad blockade. Treasury officials are refusing clearance to munitions of any sort destined to Mexican territory in accordance with the policy enunciated by the president in his message to Carranza which stated that no further exports of munitions, or of munitions-making machinery, would be permitted "as long as there is any evidence of an intention on the part of the de facto government or its military commanders to use force against the American troops instead of co-operating with them." The national guard is being mobilized and the war department is perfecting its plans to rush selected units to the front in response to the insistent demand made by Major General Frederick Funston, commanding on the border.

Secretary of War Baker is in almost constant touch with the White House. He conferred with President Wilson until nearly midnight last night and saw him again early today. It is understood that the war secretary and the president finally have decided what troops shall go to the border first. Although information regarding troop movements is refused, there is little doubt that New York, Illinois, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin and one southern state not yet selected will have the first call. New York occupies a place of advantage in view of the fact that the dual oath of allegiance to the state and the union has been a part of the Empire State's militia requirements for some time past.

Just how soon these troops can be moved is not known here. General Funston's demand for reinforcements was insistent. He asked for an immediate assignment of some 25,000 men and it is expected that the selection will be made from units which are already in active service. Strong and whose ranks can be recruited up to the limit after they have gone to the border from men in their home stations.

There is naturally grave anxiety here about the safety of the Americans still remaining in Mexico. It was expected that all Americans in Mexico City could be started on a special train so soon as Consul General Rodgers can arrange for a guard to accompany the train. Rodgers already has notified this government that Zapatistas have been very active along the line of the railroad connecting the Mexican capital with the seacoast and he was instructed to insist that the military commander at Mexico City furnish an adequate guard to the refugee train which he (Rodgers) was ordered to arrange for.

Reports of maltreatment of Americans at a number of points in Mexico were without confirmation at the state department today.

That the Mexican population expects war with the United States is indicated in all of the official dispatches received from state department agents along the border. These reports tell of a general exodus southward of the Mexican population of border towns.

The state department today still was without official confirmation of the reports that General Carranza has issued a decree calling upon all males between the ages of 15 and 35 to volunteer for service with the colors. Officials, however, are inclined to believe that this report is true in view of the reports that many Mexican males of military age who have attempted to flee into the United States have been stopped en route and impressed into the Carranzista army.

No Common Cur.

When assessing a family in Irvington the question of "what breed" was asked of the owner of the family dog. The woman of the house answered: "He's just a cur." Her six-year-old son straightened himself up to his full height, patted his dog on the head and proudly proclaimed: "Yes, and he's a full blooded cur too."—Indianapolis News.

UP GO TAXES TO MEET WAR CHARGES

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, June 21.—Tentative agreement on the tax bill which will raise the money to pay for preparedness, and to overcome the treasury deficit was reached today by the Democratic sub-committee authorized to frame the measure. The sub-committee, consisting of Majority Leader Kitchin, Representative Hull of Tennessee, the Democratic expert on direct taxation, and Representative McGillicuddy of Maine, expects to submit the completed bill to the full Democratic membership of the ways and means committee next week. The International News Service is able to present the tax bill as so far agreed upon. It would raise:

$100,000,000 to $105,000,000 by increasing the income tax.

Approximately $100,000,000 by taxing inheritances and munitions of war.

The income tax section of the bill is practically complete. It would double the present rate on all incomes. The basic rate under the present law is one per cent. Under the proposed bill the rate will be two per cent. There will be no lowering of the present exemption of $3,000 for single persons and $4,000 for married persons. But beginning at these figures each income will be taxed at two per cent until the surtax is imposed. Under the present plan the surtax will become operative on incomes of $15,000 and will practically double the present surtax. The sub-committee estimates that the increased tax will be evenly distributed and that with proper collection methods it will bring in upwards of $100,000,000.

The sub-committee proposes in the inheritance tax section to exempt all bequests up to $50,000. Above that figure inheritances will be taxed on a graduated scale beginning with a basic rate of 2 per cent. The sub-committee estimates that inheritances and munitions will bring in an additional $100,000,000.

Practically all of the stamp taxes imposed in the war revenue act will be eliminated by the sub-committee. These taxes brought in about $45,000,000 out of the $95,000,000 raised by the act. The remainder will be continued as special taxes.

Majority Leader Kitchin said today that the Democratic members of the committee would endeavor to have the bill complete for presentation to the full committee late next week. He declared that a vigorous effort would be made to rush the measure through the house before July 4. This program, however, was expected to meet with stern opposition from the Republican side of the house.

MEXICANS MOVE TOWARD PERSHING

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

San Antonio, Tex., June 21.—Seventeen thousand Mexican troops under General Jacinto Trevino are converging upon the American expeditionary force of Brigadier General John J. Pershing from the east and northwest. It is reported in a dispatch received today from Columbus, N. M.

The Mexicans, divided into two columns, are heading for El Valle and Nantiquila.

Scouts sent out by Brigadier General Pershing are said to have discovered the approaching Mexicans. When they reported the presence of the Carranzistas the scouts were reinforced.

Despite the seriousness of this information officers at Fort Sam Houston feel no alarm over the safety of the United States forces.

EUREKA.

Eureka, June 21.—Mahlon Donovan sold a cow and a two year old heifer to Melvin Braunan of Grahamsville.

Lincoln Whitley purchased two calves of Rance Van Wagner last week.

A number from here attended the Children's Day exercises at Low's Corners Sunday morning.

Ivan Sheeley had the misfortune to run a nail in his foot Monday while helping load the carriage of Hoornbeck's mill.

Mr. and Mrs. William Osterhout of Middletown are expected at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Porter this week where Mr. Osterhout will do some carpenter work.

We are very sorry to hear that Edwin Moore of Woodbourne had the bad luck to cut one of his fingers off recently while planing some boards. We wish him good luck.

Orson J. Fuller passed away at his home Thursday, June 15. He has suffered some time with heart trouble, which was the cause of his death. He appeared to be as well as usual and went out with his wife to feed the chickens and dropped dead. He leaves a wife and daughter, Mrs. Benjamin Hill, of Eureka, and one son, Bruce, at home. They all have the sympathy of the entire community. His funeral was held Sunday at the Reformed Church at 2 o'clock. It was the largest funeral ever held in that church. The Maccabees turned out in a body and laid their beloved brother at rest.

Master Willis Everett of Port Ewen is staying with his grandfather, Sylvester Porter, this summer.

John Hamilton has men employed repairing his house. It will be a great improvement to the place.

Mr. and Mrs. Euphrates Smith visited their son, Owen, at Sugar Loaf one day last week.

This has been a backward season. When we should have been selling summer clothes it was overcoat weather, so we have too many suits in our cabinets at this time of year, and will not carry them over. So we are going to hold this sale right in the height of the season, instead of waiting until after the season is over, so as to give our customers and friends an opportunity to get their suits early and get the good of them. You can buy high class clothes at this sale at less than they can be bought at wholesale today, as they are much higher than when we bought these clothes. Every suit in the store in this sale—blues, blacks, browns, greys, mixed, Scotchies, any model, style or color; nothing reserved.

CAMPAIGN PLANNED TO RAISE $5,000

Next Week the Y. M. C. A. Will Carry on a Four Day's Campaign to Raise That Amount—Eighty Men Will Assist in Convincing the City.

Starting next Tuesday the Y. M. C. A. will carry on a four days' campaign to raise $5,000 to cover the current expenses of the association. The campaign will be in charge of A. H. Greeley of the New York State Y. M. C. A. Committee, who is well-known in this city, and who had charge of previous successful campaigns. He will be assisted by eight teams of ten men each, a total of eighty workers, to canvass the city. Frank R. Powley is general chairman of the teams.

Every year a certain amount of money is needed to carry on the work of the association, and the board of directors have thought it best to concentrate their efforts in a whirlwind campaign of four days' duration and collect the amount needed this year.

Further details of the campaign will be announced later.

Social Structure.

What is a social structure? It may be an ant hill or a democracy. It is usually composed of a mass of individuals banded together for mutual disagreement. It is centripetal and centrifugal. Each individual would like to get out of it, but he doesn't know how. Small masses of individuals, also banded together, would like to get out of it, but they don't know how. Larger masses of individuals banded together would like to get rid of some of the smaller masses, but they don't know how. Nobody wants everybody else to stay. Everybody doesn't want anybody to stay. The result is that nobody can get rid of anybody.

Origin of Geometry.

There is little doubt that the science of geometry had its origin in Egypt. The annual overflow of the Nile wiped out all landmarks and boundaries, and some reliable means of measuring the earth was an absolute necessity; hence the rise of geometry, which means earth measurement. From all accounts the philosopher Thales took the science from Egypt to Greece, where it was greatly improved and carried very near the perfection it finally reached through the discoveries of the celebrated Descartes of the seventeenth century.

Prince Albert has always been sold without premiums or coupons. Quality is its standard—and my, how the millions of smokers have approved of it, too!

On the reverse side of this tidy red tin you will read: "Princess Protected July 5th, 1907"

A supply of Prince Albert awaits you wherever tobacco is sold. Toppies, red bags, 5c; tiddies, 10c; handsome pound and half-pound tin humidors and that nifty crystal-glass humidior with sponge-moistener top that keeps the tobacco in such prime shape—always!

PRINCE ALBERT

stands clear-as-a-whistle above national or state restrictions on the use of premiums or coupons because they have never been given with Prince Albert. To offer such inducements would mean that Prince Albert's quality would have to be reduced to meet their cost! We prefer to hand smokers quality.

One test of Prince Albert will prove this to your absolute satisfaction! It will prove that P. A. cannot bite, cannot parch! Your enjoyment of its fine flavor and coolness will be supreme! The patented process by which Prince Albert is made cuts out bite and parch!

Prince Albert came unheralded a few years ago; today it has made three men smoke pipes where one was smoked before and has given cigarette rollers a new idea of makin's joy. To meet the approval of such an army of men of varied tastes, P. A. must have everything we or its most enthusiastic admirers ever claimed for it.

And Prince Albert has all that! It rings true and real and you just adopt it for all time quick as you get that taste and aroma into your smokeappetite! Because, it answers the fondest tobacco desires you or any man ever did express!

DESTROYERS ORDERED TO MEXICAN COAST

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, June 21.—Because of the menacing conditions on the west coast of Mexico the navy department at 11:15 today ordered the first division of destroyers of the Pacific fleet comprising the Paul Jones, Preble, Stewart and Whipple to sail from San Diego today to take stations in Mexican waters to be assigned by Admiral Winslow commanding the Pacific fleet.
At the same time the navy department announced that it had received confirmation of the release of Ensign Kassing and Assistant Paymaster Mowat of the gunboat Annapolis, arrested by Mexicans at Mazatlan last Sunday.

PORT EWEN.

Port Ewen, June 21.—Esopus Council, No. 42, Sons and Daughters of Liberty, will meet in Hutton's Hall this evening at 8 o'clock.

The entertainment given in the Methodist Church Tuesday evening was well attended and enjoyed.

Miss Mary C. Elsworth of Salem street and Mrs. Sarah A. Cole of Ulster Park were guests of Miss Julia Van Aken on Railroad avenue Tuesday.

Reginald Van Leuven, who was recently operated on at the Benedictine Sanitarium was brought to his home on Broadway Tuesday very much improved in health. Everyone was glad to welcome him home.

Mrs. Charles Van Leuven, who has been ill at her home in Sleightsburgh is very much improved. Dr. G. W. Ross is the attending physician.

Chester DeGraff is laying a concrete walk in front of the Reformed Church.

Mrs. Albert Munson is ill at her home on Salem street. Dr. J. A. Decker is the attending physician.

H. E. McKenzie of Broadway is attending the Firemen's Convention at Poughkeepsie.

The annual strawberry festival of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist Church held Tuesday was a success both socially and financially.

GREEK CABINET RESIGNS AGAIN

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, June 21.—A Reuter despatch from Athens states that the Greek cabinet, headed by Premier Skouloudis, has resigned.
Official announcement of the resignation of the Skouloudis ministry was expected to be made in the Greek parliament today.
King Constantine called former Premier Zaimis to the palace and conferred with him. It is believed that the portfolio of premier was offered to M. Zaimis.
The overturn of the Greek government was brought about by the critical conditions imposed by the war. The presence of hostile armies upon Greek soil and the pressure of the allies' blockade has produced an acute situation throughout the Hellenic kingdom.
M. Zaimis is classed as a neutral.

Note.—This is the second time that the resignation of the Skouloudis cabinet has been reported since the allies' blockade of Greece has been renewed. On the first occasion, apparently, King Constantine refused to accept the resignation.

TEN CENTS WAS ALL MRS. DESHLER GOT

And That Amount She Said She Took From Husband's Pocket Saturday Night—He is Charged With Non-Support—Case Held Open.

Frederick Deshler of No. 125 Hunter street, was arrested on Tuesday afternoon on a warrant sworn out by his wife, who charged him with non-support. This morning Deshler was arraigned before Recorder Lang. It was brought out that he has steady work and earns from $12 to $15 a week. He asked that the court give him another chance and he would support his family.

When questioned as to the amount of money he gave his wife on Saturday his wife interrupted to remark that all she got was ten cents and that she had taken from his pants' pocket. Mr. Deshler explained that he had earned $12 that week but had loaned $5 to a friend.

After hearing both sides, Recorder Lang informed Deshler that if he did not support his family there was two things the court intended doing and they were locking Mr. Deshler up in jail and sending his wife and children to the almshouse.

On Mr. Deshler's promise to support his family, Recorder Lang held the case open for one week.

FIGHTING IRISH LEAVE FOR CAMP

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, June 21.—Amidst thunderous applause the Sixty Ninth Regiment of the New York National Guard "The Fighting Sixty Ninth," left this morning for Camp Whitman, at Beekman, N. Y., where the state militia is mobilizing for duty on the border. This is the first regiment to leave for the mobilization camp.
There were tearful scenes at the Sixty Ninth Regiment Armory as the families of the militiamen bade them good-bye, for no one could tell when the soldiers might be on the scene of fighting. Cheers and sobbing mingled as the men in khaki marched away to entrain.

Linoleum for Nurseries.
The prejudice which exists against the use of linoleum for nurseries is ill founded. Not only is it easy to wash, but, with the habit all babies possess of picking things from the floor and putting them into the mouth, the microbe-killing effect of this compound of linseed oil and cork is a useful safeguard. A bare wooden floor especially of soft pine, is particularly harmful, as it provides a good breeding place for germs.

"WHERE ARE MY CHILDREN ?"

DIRECT FROM THE GLOBE THEATRE, NEW YORK

A dignified, powerful, amazing moving picture presentation of the premeditated destruction of the unborn. Dealing with the most murderously brutal subject in existence today, but handled with dignity and reverence of the Lord's Prayer

A Perfect Cast and Vocal Soloists.	FEATURING THE GREAT CHARACTER ACTOR TYRONE POWER	Augmented Symphony Orchestra
Where Are My Children ? Superior Paullist Father John T. Hughes said: "Eminently proper a powerful indictment against a fearful and increasing crime." Positively NO CHILDREN under 16 years admitted.	THE REVEREND DOCTOR PARKHURST SAID: "Where Are My Children?" is a very powerful and gripping picture drama. I am glad to have witnessed it and am prompt to commend it. It deals with a most difficult matter in a manner of the utmost dignity. ## MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

New York, June 21.—Joy riding is killing the 1916 pennant chances of the New York Giants, just as it ruined the prospects of the 1914 and 1915 McGrawian machines.

John McGraw and some of the New York fans seem to be mystified because the Giants are sluggers on the road—and cannot hit at home. For a time, the signs on the center field fences were blamed. But this excuse was shattered by other clubs which came here and proceeded to blow themselves to slugs.

The whole trouble with the giants is that they have automobilitis. Practically every member of the club has a gasoline chariot. When he is home he spends his evenings chugging around at a rate of speed as great—or greater—than the law allows. He goes for jaunts far into the night and comes home with his eyes inflamed by the wind friction. The next day his vision is not as clear as it should be normally; there is a slight blur. His eye batting judgment is punk and he cannot connect.

On the road, the Giants are a different crew altogether. They leave their bus at home and don't spend half the night racing around. They get plenty of sleep and they don't do anything that irritates their eyes. As a result, they jump into the game each afternoon with a clear eye—and how they do lam that baseball.

The Giants, during their first stay at home this season, could not hit with any consistency. Meanwhile, they were flitting hither and thither on nights in their cars. Then they went on the road minus their autos—and they hit like fiends. The came back, resumed their automobilizing—and again they have slumped in a clubbing way.

The condition that exists this year is the same as existed before. The Giants during the past three seasons have not been able to do any noticeable batting at home. All their swatting has been done on the road, where joy rides have been few and far between.

Monsieur Benjamin Kauff was quite a swatsman in 1914. That was before he suffered from automobilitis in a malignant form. Last season the hit-killing germs began to infect his system and Kauff didn't hit with as much success as in former years. This season Kauff, who has a new racing car, is hitting around .275.

If Benny pushed his chariot in the garage tomorrow and refrained from automobilizing until the end of the season, we'll guarantee that his batting average will jump well beyond the .300 mark in a few weeks—and stay there. And if McGraw enforced a rule prohibiting the Giants from riding in autos until the season is over, it's an absolute certainty that the batting power of the club would increase 15 to 20 points in a few weeks.

Other ball players own autos, but they use them in moderation. The Giants players alone seem to be permitted to race around at any speed they wish and as often as they care. McGraw is lenient with them in this respect. So far he has seen no harm in it. But other managers have and most of them issued orders restraining their players from frisking around too much in the night air. They decided that fresh air was all right for a ball player when inebriated in the ordinary way, but concluded that it wasn't good for a player's eyesight when he plowed through it nightly at the rate of from 25 to 60 miles an hour.

Of course, McGraw and his Giants may disagree with us in our opinion that joy-riding has put the at-home batting orbs of the men very much on the blink. But sooner or later Jawn is going to see the error of the joy-riding ways, adopt rules barring it—and then watch the result.

MT. TREMPER.

Mt. Tremper, June 21.—A lawn party was held at the "Mountain Breeze House," the home of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Every, on Monday evening. Ice cream and cake were for sale and victrola music helped to make the evening a most enjoyable one. On account of the rain a number were prevented from attending.

Services were held both afternoon and evening on Sunday at the Reformed Church by the Rev. Mr. Gulick.

Robert Gross is our champion fisherman. Last week he caught several trout, all weighing a pound, and some over, and Thursday he got his largest one so far this season. It weighed four pounds and was 21 inches long.

Mrs. Mann and Miss Freida Rand all spent a few days at Rhinebeck at Mrs. Mann's home last week.

Dorothy Ingersoll, who has been ill with the measles, is convalescent.

Mrs. John Davidson and daughter, Mrs. William Woodhouse, have returned to their homes in Williamsbridge, N. Y., after spending a few weeks at their cottage here. Mrs. Woodhouse was ill during her stay here, and under the care of Dr. Gross, but was feeling better before she returned to the city.

John Falen of Brooklyn is at his summer home at Ideal Park.

Miss Gertrude Sylvester spent Sunday with friends at Lake Hill.

The Misses Hannah and Frances Randall are visiting relatives at Pine Hill this week.

Miss Wilhelmina Schaff is visiting friends at Chichester and Lanesville this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Lockwood and son, Sherman, Jr., were in Kingston last Thursday. L. S. Randall took them in his auto.

Walter L. Hawley of New York city spent last week at W. A. Sylvester's.

Mr. and Mrs. Blair of New York city are at their summer cottage.

The Rev. Mr. Gulick took tea at L. S. Randall's Sunday evening and at W. C. Riskey's Monday evening.

Are the Phillies going to repeat. They are now only four points back of the leading Dodgers. They walloped the Brooklyn three straight and meet them again today.

The races are tightening up. Both the Dodgers and Indians hold their lead by less than a game.

A win for the Phillies today would put them at the top. If the Tigers defeat the Indians the latter will drop back.

The Giants and Braves are coming along. Some changes are expected before the eastern teams get through fighting themselves.

The Yankees made the world's champions look like selling platters.

The Cardinals came from behind much to the Pirates sorrow.

The Nationals are trying to get back in the hunt. They are going good again. The Athletics were beaten yesterday.

RAILROAD SALE IS SET ASIDE

Catskill Mountain Railroad Must Be Sold Again. First Sale Being Void.
According to Judge Hasbrouck's Decision.

Judge Hasbrouck has handed down a decision on the application made recently before him by James P. Philip of Catskill to set aside the sale of the Catskill Mountain Railway Company's property, which was purchased by Eben E. Olcott, president of the Hudson River Day Line, and for a re-sale of the property, the decision of Judge Hasbrouck granting the petition for Mr. Philip.

The Catskill Mountain Railway runs from the village of Catskill to Palenville, and was constructed a number of years ago. The facts on which the application of Mr. Philip was based are stated in Judge Hasbrouck's opinion.

There were mortgages on the property aggregating $292,000. Of these mortgages, one mortgage secured an issue of first mortgage bonds amounting to $30,000; one secured an issue of second mortgage first income bonds amounting to $238,000; and another secured an issue of second income bonds amounting to $15,000. William Palmatier, as substituted trustee for the benefit of the first income bonds instituted an action to foreclose mortgages securing the second mortgage income bonds, and besides to apply the proceeds of the sale to the payment of outstanding receiver's certificates and the first mortgage bonds.

The railroad is operated approximately from May first until November of each year to accommodate traffic between the mountain resorts and the village of Catskill. Preparation for the entertainment of summer guests and their arrival commences about the first of May. The suit brought by Mr. Palmatier proceeded to a judgment of foreclosure and sale and the sale was advertised for April 17 of this year at the court house at Catskill, on which day several persons interested in the bonds appeared as bidders. The terms of sale were in the usual form, ten per cent down and payment of the balance at the office of the referee, Orloff T. Heath, at Catskill, on April 25. Interest in control of the road bid $27,100 for the property. Mr. Philip bid $28,000 and the property was struck down to him. He paid the ten per cent and signed the terms of sale, which provided among other things:

"The bidding will be kept open after the premises and property have been struck off to a bidder, and in case any purchaser shall fail to comply with these terms of sale, or any part thereof, the premises and property so struck off to him will be again put up for sale, under the direction of said referee, under the same terms of sale, without application to the court, unless the plaintiff's attorneys shall elect to make such application, and such purchaser shall be held liable for any deficiency there may be between the sum for which said premises and property shall be struck off upon the first sale and that for which they may be purchased on a re-sale, and also any costs or expenses occurring on such re-sale."

Mr. Philip applied to the referee for an extension of time to complete the purchase, stating that there was not sufficient time for him to ascertain the validity of the title and freedom from liens of the defendant company, nor time to organize a new corporation to take over the operation of the franchise and property. The referee, after communicating with the plaintiff's attorney, refused to grant the request.

On April 24, Mr. Philip procured an order to show cause, with a stay of the sale, returnable at Kingston on May 6, why he should not be granted additional time. About mid-day of April 25, which was the day Philip was to complete his payment under the terms of sale, the stay was vacated. Philip failed to pay the balance of the purchase price in accordance with the terms of sale on April 25, and the referee after ascertaining that Mr. Philip did not intend to complete his purchase, put the property up for sale at the office of the referee and re-sold it for $28,000 to E. E. Olcott and others, who had bid $27,100 at the sale on April 17. On May 3, Mr. Philip made a second motion, returnable May 6, at Kingston, for an extension of time, the cancellation of the deed to Mr. Olcott, the reinstatement of the sale to Mr. Philip or for a properly advertised sale.

"The action," says Judge Hasbrouck in his opinion, "should have been filed to have secured a sale at an earlier date in the year, having reference to the season of beginning the operation of the railroad. But it was not, and the court was compelled to deal with the situation as it existed, and therefore did not undertake to postpone the day of compliance with the terms of sale. Under the facts, these questions are presented for determination:

"1. Should Philip's time to complete his purchase be extended? He requested additional time for the reasons that he did not know about the title to nor the liens against the property, and desired to search the title and ascertain the liens. The property had been incumbered by the mortgages since 1855, and in the same ownership for thirty years; the record of liens and incumbrances was in the court house near to Philip's office, and a search could have been made for them in half a day. It is not at all apparent to the court that additional time was needed for any such purpose. Nor was additional time needed to catalogue the property. That should have been attended to before the bidding. It would hardly be claimed to be reasonable conduct to bid upon of which was unknown to the bidder. Philip further claimed the completion of the sale should be postponed until he had an opportunity to form a new corporation to take over the operation of the road and franchises. This was entirely unnecessary, for the statute provides that an individual may purchase at the sale of a railroad new corporation for six months until a corporation has been formed for such purpose."

Railroad Law, Section 151. "Where of Phoenix v. Gaunon, 195, N. Y. 474.

"Though the court was not impressed with these reasons for the extension of time, yet it would have granted it were not that other than private interests were involved; consideration of the traveling public, their means of access and egress to and from the villages and places where summer entertainment is furnished, led the court to the conclusion that the operation of the railroad should be commenced as soon as possible after the date of the sale."

"The second question says Judge Hasbrouck, is, had the referee any right to put the property up for sale at his office on the failure of Mr. Philip to complete his purchase on April 25? The sale being authorized by the judgment of foreclosure, is regulated by Section 1678 of the Code.

"The terms of the statute were complied with by the referee by advertising a public auction, and offering and selling the property at the same. The applicant Philip, by bidding and having his bid accepted, and submitting to the terms of sale and paying the ten per cent became the purchaser. He says that when he failed to comply with its terms the referee had the power to put up the premises and property for sale, or if the plaintiff's attorney was desirous of holding him for a deficiency, he might apply to the court upon notice to him for an order decreeing a re-sale.

What he did and what the respondents claim he had the right to do was, when the purchaser failed to pay the balance of the purchase price at the office, to put the property and premises up for sale at his office and re-sell it immediately. They claim the conduct of the referee to be justified by what the Appellate Division, First Department, said in Egan v. Buellesbach, 116 App. Div., 309, speaking of terms of sale identical with those above quoted.

"These terms of sale have been in use for many years and are perfectly familiar to all purchasers at judicial sales. There should be no question but that if the referee had immediately upon the purchaser's stopping payment of the check and refusing to comply with the terms of sale put the property up for re-sale, without application to the court, the purchaser would have been liable for any deficiency."

"I do not understand the language to mean that the property could be immediately offered for sale without advertising in the newspapers and posting the notice. What it does mean is that the property and franchises could be immediately advertised and noticed and thus put up for re-sale. This word 'immediately' as used by the court in the language heretofore quoted from the Egan case has reference to putting up for sale without mediation of a court order. Thus interpreted it is in harmony with reason and with the cases. When the property is struck off and the terms of sale stated and complied with, as far as required on the sale day, and the bidders have departed, and the day faded into the past, the referee cannot sell again without complying with the statute. In Jones v. Nibb, a Neb., 278, the plaintiff had sold some real estate to the defendant for $1,000. He failed to complete his purchase, and the sheriff as he had after the sale, took back to the sheriff thereof re-sold. The court held:

"If the owner waits until the sale is closed and the bidders have departed, and before again offering the property for sale."

In the case of Bernard v. Dunne, 80 Am. Dec. 116, 28 Missouri, 170, the court discussing a similar situation where bidders had departed, says:

"Upon the refusal to accept it (the deed), the trustee proceeded at once to put up the property for sale again at the same place on the same day, without re-advertising or any new notice, and few persons being present, the property was resold for twenty-five dollars. This proceeding can neither be justified nor sustained. It was in practical effect a sale without notice. The sale as advertised had taken place several hours before, and all the bidders had departed. Though yet within the hours mentioned in the advertisement, it cannot be considered a fair and valid sale pursuant to notice."

It is not pretended that the sales in the two above described cases were under terms of sale like those in the case at bar. The point is that for a sale held at the office of the referee eight days after the first sale, there was no notice, no publication. That there were at the referee's office bidders was an accident. In a sale so held the very purposes of the statute were ignored. The referee is authorized to sell by the decree directed by the statute. If the sale for any reason fails, he has the power to carry out the terms of the judgment and resell, but it must be a public sale upon notice.

Bricknell v. Byrnes, 23 How. Pr., 456.

Gross v. Janesok, 16 Daly, 346. Hewlett v. Davis, 3 Edw. Ch., 357. Home Ins. Co. v. Jones, 45 How. Pr., 498.

Lewis v. Craig, 15 How. Pr., 72. Abb. Pr., 294.

Thomas on Mortgages, 3d Ed., Sec. 988.

The judgment of foreclosure cannot be executed at a private sale.

Ely v. Matthews, 128 App. Div., 315.

Anderson v. Cord, 1 Miss. Ch., 345.

The only manner in which a deficiency judgment on the bond or against a purchaser for refusing to comply with the terms of sale can be determined is by a public sale.

Nash v. Knowlton Hall Co., 45 Misc., 513.

These reasons and cases leave little doubt but that this referee was without power to resell without re-advertising and reposting. The distinctive features of a public sale are, advertisement published in a newspaper, notices posted in public places, exposure for sale of the thing to be sold in a public place. A sale not having such features could not be a public sale.

The vice in the sale at the referee's office is that it was a private sale.

"The third question is, had Philip the right to complain of the sale? It may be claimed that having refused to complete his purchase and being excused from payment of a deficiency by the order vacating the stay, he is in no position to challenge the validity of the resale. I think the matter jurisdictional. There was no authority for the sale had, nor for the acceptance of any other bid after the day of the first sale.

May v. May, 11 Paige, 202.

Philip did nothing after the sale of the 25th of April to waive his right to bid.

The order vacating the stay as far as it excused Philip from the payment of a deficiency is vacated. The sale is set aside, the deed cancelled, and a resale ordered. If less than $28,000 at the resale, application may be made to the court to fix the liability and amount of the deficiency which Philip should be required to pay because of failure to complete his purchase on the original sale. The purchaser at the office sale should be repaid out of the proceeds of the resale money needed early spent in opening and placing in readiness the railroad for operation. The same referee is appointed. Order may be settled June 21, at 10 o'clock, in supreme court chambers, a. m., in supreme court chambers, court house, Kingston, N. Y.

Hon. Marcus T. Hua of Albany appeared for Mr. Philip and the motion; Osborn, Bloodgood & Wilbur of Catskill appeared in opposition.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Near the British Front in France, June 21.—The Maoris of New Zealand, by their champion tree-chopping contest, have won their title in the British army.

They won their title in a great match against the Canadians and Australians.

It is said of the Maoris that many of them are too large to be accepted in the army. Almost all are giants.

For some time there had been keen rivalry on the subject of tree-chopping, so General Birdwood decided to have the question settled in open contest.

There was a goodly company of men in the forest, where they had followed the sign-posts through the clouds to the rendezvous in the heart of it. The sun that filtered through the beech leaves and shot golden arrows between the tall, straight trunks, glowed on the bronzed face of men who have come into this twilight of the French woods from the clare of the Egyptian desert and the rocks of Gallipoli.

Under their slouch hats, those clean-cut, clean-shaven boys of Australia and New Zealand, look at home in the forest, of a kinship with the trees, and out of the thick undergrowth so rich and green in the fresh splendor of this May, came browner and darker men. Grays-eyed fellows, who are the very children for forest-life. With axes over their shoulders, came the Maori wood-cutters, keen for victory.

There was an Anzac band among the trees, playing rattle, and to this music the first axe was set to work, at a signal from the judges, who were mostly brigadiers. A number of trees had been marked out, and their girth had been measured, and each team had three trees to fell, the aggregate time being reckoned for the award. Australians and New Zealanders competed with Canadians in each class of event.

The Canadians were fine men, and they handled their axes with a cool craft, which was fine to watch, with clean, leisurely cuts that bit out great chunks waist high in the stout tree-trunks. But the Australians were faster. Astonishingly fast. Their service axes rose and fell with sharp stabbing blows that sliced through the trees so that the fillets fell like snow flakes. A great shout went up when the first tree was cut in two by one of those Anzacs.

But it was New Zealand which carried off the prize for felling, and the Maoris won it easily. Their axe-throwing was beautiful to see, its swiftness and strength. There was a song of strength in the bodies of these brown men, swiftness with a perfect harmony of physical energy to the long sweeping strokes of the axe. Their arms were bare to the shoulders of their cotton vests, and their muscles flowed up and down in sinuous waves.

The aggregate time in which they felled their three trees was 22 minutes 49 seconds, which was better by

23 minutes than the Canadians, whose aggregate time was 45 minutes 22 seconds. This difference is greater than it might have been because the Canadians did not produce their best team in time for the competition. It was the Canadians, however, who won the cross-cut sawing.

West Shokan Celebration.

The Willing Workers of the Baptist Church at West Shokan are arranging a patriotic celebration and lawn party to be held on the church grounds July 4, afternoon and evening. There will be sports for boys and girls in the afternoon and prizes will be given to winners. Supper will be served in the church basement from 5 o'clock. In the evening a short musical and literary program will be given in the church auditorium, followed by fireworks on the lawn. Ice cream, candy, fruit, etc., will be on sale.

TRUE TALES TOLD BY TRAVELERS

It does not always fall to the lot of traveling salesmen to have unusual experiences, although by the nature of their occupation they have their full share.

The stories opened with the tale of a traveling man who had found himself late one night at the end of a small railway branch line. The train had waited to make connection with the express train on the main line and was two hours late in pulling in the place, so that his arrival at midnight found the station closed and himself the only arrival there. As soon as he alighted the train backed into the darkness and he was alone. The town did not boast a policeman or a nightwatchman, so he trudged down the dark street in search of a hotel. The street was lighted with oil lamps, which flicked dimly. Every store, every house and every other building was in gloom, and when he reached the last gas light which denoted the village limits he had not seen any building which resembled a hotel.

Then he turned back, and by lighting matches in front of every building which looked like a hotel, he finally found an unpretentious looking place with the name "Hotel" painted above the door. He turned the door knob and the door swung open. From the hallway in which he found himself he walked to the office, which was in darkness. A light glimmered at the top of the stairway and he walked upstairs, calling out "Hello, there," at each step, but waiting for a reply that never came. Near the light in the upper hallway was an open door, and he walked in the room. With the aid of matches he undressed, and then recalled that he wanted to be called early, so he wrote on one of his business cards a request to be called at seven o'clock and left the card on the hallway stand where the light was burning. There was no lock on the door, but he was too weary to pay much attention to that and soon was asleep.

Sometime in the morning, he heard a rap at his door and looked at his watch. It was eight o'clock.

"I see we had a visitor we didn't know of," said the proprietor, who entered in answer to the commercial man's "Come in." The traveling man explained how he had come to take possession of the room and the proprietor told him the night train into the town was sometimes late and for that reason he always left the front door unlocked so that the travelers who were accustomed to stopping there could get in without any trouble and find their own rooms.

"We came near missing you," continued the proprietor. "I blew out the light without noticing your card, but my wife happened to go through the hall awhile ago and stopped to see what it said. She told me to wake you up."

"I can get breakfast, I suppose," said the traveler.

"No-o," drawled the proprietor. "You see, my wife and her sister left on the six o'clock train this morning and I don't know how to cook. You can pay me now, and when you're dressed and go out, just close the front door after you."

"Where are you going?" asked the traveling man.

"O, I'm going fishing," said the proprietor, as he pocketed the half-dollar he had charged for the traveler's lodging.

When Feather Beds Are Out of Place.

This reminded a second traveler of a vacation he intended to take at a small hotel in a country village of which he often had heard but never visited. He had been working hard and the doctor recommended quiet, with plenty of rest and sleep, with good meals and large quantities of fresh air. The traveler arranged by letter for a two weeks' stay at the village hotel and arrived there in time for supper. The meal was all he could desire. At night when he went to his room he found the windows nailed shut and borrowed a hammer to remove the nails. When he stepped into bed he found an unusually deep feather bed covering the mattress. Feather beds are warm in the winter, but they are also warm in summer, and this was August. The convalescent was just falling asleep when a tap at the door was followed by an injunction from the proprietor to close his window, as the draft was sucking under the door and through the hall into his own room, where his wife was catching cold. After a sleepless night spent in sweltering and swearing the traveler cancelled his stay the following morning and returned home.

Another traveler had never slept in a feather bed but he, too, had had an experience in a country hotel in a remote section of the country. He retired early intending to read himself to sleep, and was in the midst of an exciting tale when a shadow crossed the page of his magazine, and startled at the shadow he turned his head in time to see what looked like a rat crawling leisurely along the counterpane several inches from his head, between him and the light. Closer examination showed it was only a household insect which feeds on human beings and makes its habitat in bed rooms and beds, from which its name is derived. He seized it and dropped it from the window and after examining the counterpane for its mate, without finding it, he retired again and continued his interrupted story.

Another shadow across the page of the magazine disclosed the presence of the mate, which followed the fate of the first bug and was dropped out of the window. Then the traveler dressed and went to the office, where the proprietor assured him the room had been vacant for several weeks after having had a thorough cleaning, and while there might have been

two visitors, there was no possibility of more appearing.

The proprietor was closing the hotel for the night, and as he turned out the last light before turning in, he invited his guest to notify him in the morning of he should have any more midnight visitors, and feeling secure the traveler retired for a third time to his bed.

Barely had he finished the story he was reading when something attracted his eyes toward the door, and crawling over the sill he beheld an insect as big as both of those he had seen before. He seized the magazine and making a leap for the door, he dispatched his third nocturnal visitor. The evidence had scarcely been removed when a fourth visitor, even bigger than his predecessors, came crawling under the door. If he had had a microscope, the guest is certain he would have noticed an expectant expression on the face of his visitor as he scented fresh blood. The fourth visitor went the way of the others, and then the traveler dressed. Then placing the lamp in such a position that the rays would shine into the hall under the door, he seized a pile of magazines and books, and seating himself close to the door, he awaited the onslaught which by now he was certain would follow. He was not disappointed. Hour after hour through the night he whacked and banged as the visitors came trooping, first single, then in couples and then in files, platoons, companies, battalions and regiments beneath the door. Unaccustomed to such strenuous physical exercise, his arms ached before many hours, but still he continued, for safety prevented him from following a policy of watchful waiting or inactivity of any kind; it was a case of survival of the fittest.

At daybreak he seized his grips and fled from the hotel throwing a dollar bill on the hotel register as he dashed madly through the office. At the station he felt safe, and there he waited until the first train arrived, which would carry him to another place where he had business. A few days later he learned that the only customer he had hoped to see in the town he had fled had died two days before his arrival and the funeral was held the day he left.

A Temperance Lesson That Was Lost.

was too greatly overwhelmed as he read the signs over the hotel desk to ask questions, especially when the proprietor informed him that the telephone linemen were occupying all his bedrooms and there was not a place where any traveler could sleep unless it was the "side parlor." The town was on a branch line railroad which ran as far as the town and then stopped. The train schedule called for one train out the following day, and as there was no livery or any vehicle of any sort to be obtained the traveler decided to use the "side parlor."

He spent the early part of the evening visiting the different stores where he expected to do business, and then listened to the trial of a case in the hotel office until it was time to go to sleep. There were no curtains at the windows, so he undressed in the dark. Instead of a bed, the room possessed only an old fashioned leather lounge through the worn covering of which protruded springs from which the spring had disappeared, leaving only sharp points which prodded him in the back throughout the night. With aching back and almost believing that the hotel proprietor would be called on to perform his duties as undertaker, the drummer opened his eyes at the first sign of dawn. Across the room glared two balls of fire. He blinked and looked in another direction. Two more glowing orbs were glaring at him. Turning his head as best he could after having had the pointed end of a spring prodding his neck during the night, the traveler saw balls of fire glaring at him from every direction—from walls, ceiling, floor and not more than three feet away was a shapeless mass from which glowed only one ball. All the balls looked like eyes. The traveler was not frightened but he felt uneasy, and he searched his conscience for any cause which might make him see visions, interspersing the searching process with attempts to think coherently on the effect produced on the nerves by sleeping on springs such as he knew the old lounge had once contained. At the same time he began to notice a peculiar odor. He realized that daylight was near and determined to keep his eyes shut until he heard someone stirring about the hotel, because if protection was needed he would then be better justified in calling for help than in the fearsome semi-darkness through which nothing could be distinguished clearly.

At the end of half an hour—it seemed like a day to the traveling man, he heard someone moving in the next room, and then the door opened. He opened his eyes and saw the proprietor standing before him. Above the doorway and on either side of it he saw stuffed animals of all descriptions—everything that is smaller than an elephant—and gazing around the room he saw the walls lined with other animals, all with their mouths open and all with bright glaring eyes. The proprietor-taxidermist explained that the unusually bright eyes he used in finishing the animals he stuffed were made especially for him and he thought they produced a better effect than the usual eyes which are placed in animals.

"I suppose I ought to ask your pardon," he added, "for letting you sleep alongside the work bench without talking out the carcass I was working on yesterday afternoon when you came." As the same time lifting a dead animal from a table three feet away from the traveler's lounge. It was from this stand that the peculiar odor had emanated which the traveler noticed when he awoke.

"It's lucky you didn't throw your arms around," added the taxidermist, as he reached over and from the back of the lounge unfastened two half-stuffed snakes.

"Did you stay there long?" asked one of the listeners.

"Not even for breakfast," replied the traveling man. "I sometimes wonder, though, what would have been the result if I had been a drinking man and had taken a drink or two before going to sleep that night."

English Bride of Maori.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, June 21.—A romantic wedding was celebrated at Walton-on-Thames when an English girl, Miss Winifred Alderton, became the wife of a Maori soldier who had fought in Gallipoli and did not reach this country until eight weeks ago.

The bridegroom, Private Poi-Poi, is like most of the Maoris—a man of majestic physique. He belongs to the Sixteenth New Zealand Regiment.

He came to Walton as a patient in the Volux Hospital and has been nursed back to health. He expects to return to New Zealand with his bride on home service.

Illinois Troops in Camp.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Springfield, Ill., June 21.—"Camp Duane," the official name of the concentration camp for Illinois troops, became a reality today when the First Cavalry, one of the crack regiments of the country, moved in under the command of Col. Milton J. Foreman. Workmen labored all night in the train putting the finishing touches on the camp. By the end of the week it is expected that practically all of Illinois's 6,000 soldiers will be drawing their bacon and beans from the mess tent here.

THOSE ROXNOR BUNGALOWS.

Charming as Their Names, They Are Ideal Summer Homes.

Fully as charming as their names are the cozy bungalows in the Roxnor Colony, a refined community in the southern Catskills about 30 miles from Kingston and which is fast becoming the Mecca of local nature-loving autoists in search of the truly wild scenery in their journeys. Local hunters for the unique in summer entertainment find these cottages intensely interesting, scattered as they are, among the trees on a hillside.

Cherry Bounce, Ja Top Crow's Nest, Peter Pan, and Pokebonnet are the unassuming names by which some of the cottages are called. Other members of the community of bungalows are the Little House in the Woods, Briar Patch, the summer home of Mrs. C. V. Van Anda, wife of one of the prominent editors of the New York Times and a participant in the recent Ulster County Woman Suffrage Convention; Pussy Willows, La Casita del Monte, Woodbourne, Tree Tops, Sumachs, the domicile of Dr. Parker of Chicago University; Hillside, tenanted by Miss M. E. Richmond, one of the secretaries of the Russell Sage Foundations; Green Gables, its associate, Seven Gables, Sunbank, As You Like It and Thendara, the pride of their owners, who anticipate a summer in quiet Roxnor with much more pleasure than a winter in their formal city homes.

His Bicycle Was Stolen.

Work and Leisure.

There is room enough in human life to crowd almost every art and science in it. If we pass "no day without a line"—visit no place without the company of a book—we may with ease fill libraries, or empty them of their contents. The more we do, the more we can do; the more busy we are, the more leisure we have.—Hartlett.

ing up some other company in the
tation to the desired strength.

Men Are Wanted.

Handbills headed "50 men wanted
to serve their Country," are being circulated today and all interested persons are urged to inquire at the
armory. "We Must Have 50 Men
Before Friday" is another emphatic
note on the poster.

In connection with this recruiting campaign, Captain Meagher plans to have a flying squadron at work in the city and vicinity within the next two days bringing in men anxious to join the company but holding off because of lack of knowledge of requirements or some other insufficient reason or other. Automobiles have been donated for the use of the captain and recruiting officers and an energetic campaign is anticipated in this direction.

Company M Doing Its Share.

Some surprising figures are being returned in the recruiting of new members for the Tenth Regiment
and it is now believed that the enthusiasm shown and the added
strength of this important unit of the Third Brigade will be a determining factor in the Governor's decision as to what regiments shall go to the border and what ones stay
in camp.

Company M is doing its share in recruiting as a look at headquarters
in the armory will show. There men are running back and forth under the direction of the medical examiner,
Captain Cranston, and records made
of their physical condition upon
which their admission to the ranks
largely depends.

Drill Attracted Hundreds.

Discovery was made Tuesday that
the guardsmen at the present stage
of the game are eligible to draw pay
at the rate of $1.25 a day from the state until mustered into the federal service. Then the regular army pay scheme. The amount of that was a subject of varying opinions today.
It is said to be $17 a month but the clothing and other allowances under which a man by being careful can net considerable savings, brings it up to more than twice that figure in the opinion of local officers.

Drill on the athletic field attracted several hundred spectators, thus showing and considerable interest
is being manifested by the public.
This afternoon an even larger crowd
was in evidence with prospects for a good-sized number of spectators at
"retreat" which is sounded in front
of the armory at 5 o'clock.

Bits of Social Shrapnel—Aimed from
the Armory.

Rations continue good. The high cost of living has ceased to worry
the roughest appetites of some men.
What most of them are craving for,
however, is not tamales and frioles.
There're only served on the other side of the border.

The ladies' relief organizations onto candy and little luxuries which are quite as useful in their way as handbags and things of which the surgeon thinks he already has a sufficient supply. Votes-for-women's assignments of cigarettes say we.

There are very few "rookies" in Company M and the few there are are busy in the effort to get out of that squad as soon as possible. The press we trust, will recall that in speaking of Troop M and bear light
on the objectionable term.

The girls we're going to leave behind us are bearing up pretty well so
far but the fair damsel who nearly fainted in front of the armory Tuesday better look out she doesn't get caught on a bayonet.

Some of the girls are anxious to
put off a button or two as a souvenir.
But if they only knew the work it
means for the soldier laddie to sew
that button back, they'd urge a domestic science course at Plattsburg
and in the militia.

Private Kelly talks in his sleep as sure as pigs is pigs. He was trying to auction one off in a somnambulistic
seance during the night.

Handing freight on the West here helped Private M. R. Lockwood, who has been detailed to assist Captain Meagher in the matter
of moving supplies.

Major Chandler himself was short-changed until Private Martin Netter expert stenographer, was assigned to the major's staff.

Private Egbert Humphrey is on the cook detail. In civilian life he's a baker but at the armory the boys
say he's a bum.

Christopher Perry, master butch-

er, is handy with the cook detail's
machetes. He is already called the
"village cut-up."

One "rookie" was detected walking barefoot on the armory floor and
was hazed somewhat proper, standing on the cold tiles for an hour
practicing "hayfoot, strawfoot."

One anxious mother was made
more so when she heard someone talking about "spuds" on the bill of fare. She thought it was awful her
boy should have to eat such stuff
until somebody said "spuds" meant strawberries and cream. The term
is applied to whole boiled potatoes
in military tactics.

The second night was quiet compared to the first Captain Meagher's
statement that when men were noisy
at night it meant they did not have
work enough by day quieting the noisy ones. At least either that or
the long drill out doors did it.

Major Chandler and his staff
found the morale of the men excellent. Major-General O'Ryan has discovered the same thing in the other regiments but "the Tenth," the Tenth, the Tenth will beat them to
it!

By the way, one copy of The Freeman for 125 men is getting it down
pretty fine. Some enterprising news-
boy could reap a harvest with papers
at the armory each evening or else
the office might send up a few sample copies. (We're on.)

The medical examination is stiff
and it is no cinch getting passed through. Lots of men are turned down and the medical rooms of the armory are busy scenes these days.

Origin of Satin.

The discovery of the principle of the manufacture of satin was a pure accident. The discovery was made by a silk weaver named Octavio Man. During a dull period of business one day
he was pacing before his loom, not knowing how to give a new impulse to his trade. As he passed the loom he each time he pulled short threads from
the warp and, following an old habit,
put them into his mouth and rolled
them about, soon after spitting them
upon the floor. Later he discovered a little ball of silk upon the floor of his shop and was astonished at the brillancy of the threads. He repeated the experiment and eventually employed various machinistic preparations and succeeded in making satin.

Deaf as an Adder.

The expression "deaf as an adder" is
from the Psalms of David, where it appears in the following form. "Their
poison is like the poison of serpents.
They are like the deaf adder that stop-
peth her ear, which will not hearken
to the voice of charmers, charming ever
so wisely." East Indian travelers tell us that there is a widely prevailing superstition in the east to the effect that
both the viper and the asp stop their ears when the charmer is uttering his incantations or playing his music by turning one ear to the ground and twisting the point of the tail into the other.

Wool Jersey is extensively used
for sport wear and is especially attractive in the three pieced suits.
Here a frock and long coat is developed in golden brown wool Jersey
and is attractively trimmed with rows of white bone buttons. The Mexican straw hat with its bandana
is simple and attractive with this outfit.

CHANDLER TALKS TO ROTARY CLUB

Members of the Rotary Club in weekly luncheon assembled at the Hotel Eichler today drafted Major George Chandler for a speaker in place of County Bacteriologist Raymond Sanderson who had been called

gave an eloquent discussion of "Recruiting." Applause marked the close of the speaker's appeal to patriotism and his recital of the difficulties encountered in getting men because so many believed the situation on the border was merely a flash in the pan.

At the conclusion of the speech
the Rotary Club members all
volunteered to go to the armory at 6:30 o'clock tonight and sing the marching song composed by Major Chandler and dedicated by him to the Tenth Regiment.

MUDHOOK ROAD UP TO ITS NAME

People who have occasion to use
the road between Tillson and the Springtown school house are getting ready to do something that will be very unpleasant to the highway authorities of the town of Rosendale
and also of the county because of
the wretched condition of the road,
due partly to the weather and partly to neglect of maintenance of public officials.

A month or more ago furrows
were plowed alongside the road and some of this mud scraped into the roadway. Then the highway "war-rers" went away and left this mess
for people to get over or through as best they could. A Springtown man
who came through on Tuesday with
a four horse team says his wagon
sank to the hubs and he came very near never getting through this
mud, unless sinking out of sight
might be termed getting through.

Automobiles get stuck and the way the mud has been piled up the
roadway is only about eight feet in width in many places, making it impossible for vehicles to pass one another. If the roadway hardens it
will be more dangerous than at present. Complaints have been made to the county authorities but no action has resulted. An appeal to the courts is next in order and will not be long delayed.

Cause For Thanks.

Wife—The dressmaker says she won't make me another gown until you pay her bill. Hub (with relief)— That is very good of her. I must write her a note of thanks.

Falls of Iguazu.

More than twice as wide as Niagara and fully fifty feet higher, the falls of Iguazu, in South America, is one of the great wonders of that continent.

LANTERNS IN CHINA.

Are in Common Use.

Particularly gay and attractive are
the shops of the lantern venders in the Chinese cities.

All varieties of lanterns are to be seen—the large silken ones three and four feet high, gorgeously painted with variegated colors, embroidered in gold
and silver or decorated with deep
fringe of the same material, costing
from $100 to $200 and used by the wealthy mandarins and others, and
common small horn and paper lanterns,
used by the coolies, which cost one-
sixteenth of a dollar.

The mode of making horn lanterns is very ingenious, the horns are cut into thin slices which, by means of heat and pressure, are joined together and formed into various shapes: round, square, hexagon, octagon, and some shaped to resemble an hourglass.

It is usual for servants, after sunset,
to carry before their masters large
lanterns made either of horn or highly varnished paper, with the name, title
and dignities painted in large letters
thereon.

At the feast of lanterns, which takes place in the early part of the Chinese
New Year, these lantern shop proprietors reap a rich harvest, as it is customary for parents to make presents of lanterns to their children,
brother to sister, friend to friend, inferior to superior, and vice versa.

Harmony in the Leaves of a Tree.

One of the remarkable characteristics of a tree is the process of leafage,
and if we examine the bough upon
which the leaves grow the admiration
of the scientific agriculturist will become thoroughly aroused over the perfect consistency and artistic skill manifested in the arrangement of each
spray and the exact number of leaves
arranged with the most exquisite art
and regularity. Every group of leaves
forms merely long lines, no two alike,
no two in the same position, yet all so
perfect and harmoniously blended that
there can be no antagonism, no same-
ness and all those thousands and thousands of strange and delicate forms
grouped together, neither confused nor
ill arranged.

Pretty Lazy.

"Frisbie is the laziest man I ever knew."

"What makes you think so?"
"He actually seems to be glad that
he's getting baldheaded, so that he won't have to comb his hair any more."

LADY MERCER NAIRNE.

BARON ASTOR'S SON TO WED.

London, June 21—Capt. the Honorable John Jacob Astor, youngest son of the former William Waldorf Astor, now Baron Astor of Haver Castle, is soon to marry Lady Mercer Nairne, it is announced today.

Young Astor, who is an officer in the First Life Guards and champion racket player of the British army, was appointed by the king as a lieutenant in the Life Guards in 1906. He was wounded in a battle in the war, but the nature of his wounds was never disclosed.

Lady Mercer Nairne is the widow of Lord Charles George Francis Nairne, who was killed in the fighting in France, in October, 1914. He was a major in the First Dragoon's. His widow was Lady Violet Mary Elliot, daughter of the fourth earl of Minto, former viceroy of India.
She spent much of her time in the United States when her father was Governor-General of Canada.

John Jacob Astor, Jr., is a nephew by marriage of Mrs. Madeline Force Astor, who is to be married Thursday in Bar Harbor to William K. Dick. He went through Elton and entered the English army in 1906.
He gained fame in the army in 1908, when he won the racket championship.

He was appointed in 1913 aide-de-camp to Lord Hardings. His regiment was among the earliest sent with the British forces to France.

He holds title to $5,500,000 worth of downtown Manhattan real estate, including the site of the old Astor House, the Exchange Court Building and the office building at Nos. 8-12 Wall street. His father transferred it to him last July to escape inheritance taxes. He is heir, of course, to other vast properties upon his father's death.

The crowning of Young Astor in the Life Guards by King Edward was the first indication that his father, William Waldorf Astor, was acquiring the royal favor he had long sought.

The Governor's Quick Wit.

While talking to a former governor
of Illinois, who was noted for the quickness of his wit, an English tourist spoke with special fervor of a sight
he had seen in another state.

"I attended a Sunday service for
the inmates of the state prison," he said, "and I learned that of the 269
persons now confined there all but twelve voluntarily attend religious services held in the prison chapel twice
each Sunday."

"Most extraordinary," said the governor musingly. "I am sorry to say it is not so with us. But then," he added soberly, "in Illinois, you see, most
of the respectable people do not come

GOOD AND EVIL.

The very best gifts, those that
we should covet above all others
if we understood their real value,
are not those which may or may not chance to come to us,
but those which must inevitably
follow us when we are good and true, faithful and wise. The worst calamities are not those
which may come upon us unawares, but those which follow
from our own conscious wrongdoing.
